A Tiny Naphtha Launch Steals Into Dalny With Torpedo.

ADVANCE CONTINUES

Kuroki's and Oku's Forces Turn Up at Six Different Spots in Manchuria.

RAILROAD LINE IS DESTROYED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Liao-Yang, Saturday, May 14.—(Delayed in transmission.)—The Russian fleet scored its first distinct naval success of the war on May 10, by the torpedoing and crippling, though not the sinking, of an armored Japanese cruiser in Talienwan bay.

The Russian attack was carefully planned on May 10, while the Japanese squadron was concentrating outside Dalny, devoting its whole attention to Talienwan bay, and was carried out the same night.

The attacking force was not a regular torpedo boat, but was only a small naphtha launch in command of a young naval officer who had with him three jackies. The launch mounted a small machine gun and carried three torpedoes.

When darkness fell the launch crept out of Port Arthur, hugging the shore, with no lights and no glow from the engines to betray her presence. It was late when she gained the outer line of the Japanese squadron. Slipping through the torpedo boat pickets and selecting the nearest warship, a big armored cruiser, she stole toward her and succeeded in exploding against her side a single torpedo.

Cruiser Crippled.

A deafening roar followed the explosion, which echoed far ashore. Immediately flames enveloped the cruiser, which evidently was badly crippled. The crew of the cruiser was seen to be fighting the fire, which they at last succeeded in extinguishing. A sister ship took the damaged vessel in tow and disappeared to the southwest.

The launch escaped the hot fire directed against her by the Japanese ships, but the men were forced to beach her not far from Dalny.

Only a few of the higher officers were aware of the plan, the success of which depended upon secrecy. The achievement raised the spirits of the Russians ashore and afloat, and the young officer who was the hero of the exploit was feted and recommended for the cross of St. George.

The Russians on May 11, apprehending that the presence of a Japanese squadron meant an attempt to capture Dalny, blew up the piers and quietly evacuated the place.

Two thousand Japanese have reoccupied the road to Sanchilipu, again cutting off Port Arthur. A strong force is advancing against Polandien.

Japanese Advance Widespread.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—(Special Cable, Herald Copyright.)—From Mukden the Japanese are reported to have turned up in six different new places, occupied four stations, blown up the line five versts below Port Adams and taken Dalny.

The reported capitulation of Port Arthur seems to have originated in the occupation of Dalny and the landing of siege guns by the Japanese, who have landed further reinforcements on the peninsula at Kin-Chow and Pitsewo and destroyed the railroad for 20 miles.

A rumor reaches here that the Russian ships attempted a sortie last night and were able to get clear of the channel obstructions, but were detected by the Japanese scouting vessels, upon which the blockaders closed in and opened fire, compelling the Russians to again seek the shelter of the harbor. This report, however, could not be confirmed and is doubted by naval men, who claim that the assertion of Admiral Togo that the channel is impassable for large vessels is undoubtedly true.

At the same time Gen. Kuroki and Gen.

CHINESE THROW OFF THE MASK

Russian Mining Station Attacked by Native Soldiers.

50 SLAIN IN FIGHT

JAPANESE ARE IMPLICATED

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

Liao-Yang, May 15.—Chinese soldiers yesterday attacked the railway coal mines occupied by the Russian administrative force near Port Adams, and drove out the officials who were working therein, many of them escaping only partly clad. The Chinese looted the works and retired.

Liao-Yang, May 14.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Chinese bandits are becoming bolder and are causing considerable trouble to the Russian outposts. A swarm of the bandits at noon of May 3 attacked the coal mines on the branch line east of Yantai station, 10 miles north of Liao-Yang.

The mines, which supply the whole railroad, were guarded by 200 riflemen and 100 Cossacks. In a fierce fight the Russians repelled the bandits and then disarmed them, the bandits fleeing to the hills and to three neighboring villages. The troops surrounded the villages and then demanded the surrender of the bandits. The surrender was at first refused, but, fearing that the Russians would destroy their homes, the villagers finally revealed the hiding places of the fugitives.

Fifty Bandits Killed.

The bandits fought with the desperation of entrapped rats, and 50 of them were speared and killed. The Russians suffered no loss.

Among 17 prisoners taken by the troops were two Japanese officers who had escaped from the Russians. One of the bandits taken a prisoner confessed that the bandits had been hired by the Japanese, whom they were supplying with information.

NIUCHWANG, May 15.—A band of brigands was attacked about a mile and a half southeast of this city last night by a number of native irregulars, the fight being witnessed by the correspondent of the Associated Press. Three of the brigands were killed and two mortally wounded by the natives, who were not assisted by the Russian troops.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—In view of the official dispatches regarding the hostile attitude of the Chinese within and without the Russian sphere of influence, the authorities here do not conceal their apprehension as to the outlook, especially in the north of the empire, for they purpose to call the attention of the Celestial government to the impending uprising in Tapalziatsi in order that repressive measures may be instantly taken.

Boxers Not Forgotten.

It is known and appreciated here that all the powers have made strong representations to Pekin in the interest of the preservation of the tranquility of the empire, but it is stated that Maj.-Gen. Pflug's dispatch of May 14 shows the necessity for further impressing the celestial government with the advisability of acting with a firm hand.

The authorities here do not forget that the Boxer revolt which spread from Shan-Tung would have involved the entire empire had it not been for the firmness of the southern viceroys. The military authorities in St. Petersburg claim to have information of a sensational character to the effect that the Chinese have tacitly agreed to co-operate with the Japanese operations against the Russians.

The Japanese propose, it is stated, to drive Gen. Kuropatkin's forces into Mongolia, which would place the Russians in the position of invaders of neutral territory and enable reprisals by Gen. Ma's army, which, it is asserted, is kept in that region for that special object, thus cleverly averting the slightest infringement.

CHINESE REBELS SEEK SOLDIERS

GEN. ENGLISH ACTIVE

STATEMENT OF THE MINISTER

The Pittsburgh Gazette Bureau.
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.

To depose the empress dowager rather than to protect the Celestial empire from a foreign foe is the purpose of the much-advertised "Chinese imperial reform army." Upon reading this morning's papers a dispatch published in The Gazette that Gen. Edmond F. English of Yankton, S. D., was seeking the services of American regular and volunteer army officers to go to China, Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, the Chinese minister, issued this statement:

"This legation is not aware of any desire on the part of the imperial government to secure the services of American officers for its army. If the government had anything of this kind in mind this legation would be sure to have official information on the subject. There is no foundation for the statement that Prince Pu Lun, who came to this country to attend the Louisiana Purchase exposition, desires to obtain the services of American officers."

Acting for Reformers.

This was deemed enough for official repudiation of the South Dakota enlistment office, but it was further learned that the legation had information that Gen. English is acting for the "Bow Wong Huey," or radical reform party in China, the leader of which is Kong Yu Wei, once high in the favor of the empress of China, but who was compelled to flee from Pekin when the empress dowager several years ago deposed the emperor and took the reins of government into her own steady hand. Kong Yu Wei was carried to Singapore on a British gunboat and is now a sort of state prisoner at Calcutta, India. His friends have continued the propaganda of extreme reform, revision of the centuries old constitution and abolition of existing time-honored customs which he constantly pressed upon the emperor. They have extended their arm to the United States.

A powerful branch exists in New York and publishes its own newspaper. A similar paper is published in San Francisco. Few Chinese merchants, laundrymen or laborers in this country escape being asked to contribute to the society's exchequer. It is reputed to have substantial financial resources, part of which are believed to be available for the army.

Aired at Dinner at Delmonico's.

At an elaborate dinner at Delmonico's on June 25, 1903, this party's hopes and ambitions were aired by J. M. Singleton, president of the New York section; Bow Chee, Liang Chee Cheao, Yip Wing of Vancouver, B. C., and Dr. Yung Wing of Hartford, Conn., while other addresses were delivered by Robert W. Deforest, Dr. Ernst J. Lederle, president of the New York health department, and Dr. Walter Brooks Browner.

Just how the imperial reform army expects to get at the foundations of the throne to render it unstable for its present occupant the Chinese minister and the officials of his staff are at a loss to understand. It would be a breach of good faith for the United States government to permit an armed force to start from this country to China with hostile intent. Gen. English, whom the legation officials have learned is a G. A. R. man, is quoted as stating that all recruits must go to China as individuals.

"If any of the leaders of this movement or any members of it would try to land in China their heads would not remain on their shoulders 10 minutes," remarked a legation official today. None of the American army officers who have received invitations to join the reform army have been advised just what fighting is in prospect."

Legation Enlightened Him.

The superintendent of the dining rooms at Yale informed the Chinese minister last February that he had been offered by Gen. English "any position in the Chinese army." He thought it too good to be true and was enlightened by a letter from the legation.

A Wisconsin congressman called the Chinese legation on the telephone yesterday and said he had a friend, a lieutenant in the United States army, who would fight in the Chinese army if he could get better pay and greater rank than in the American service. He, too, was enlightened. Meanwhile, the American statutes are being thumbed in an effort to see if there is any way for the real Chinese government to bring the operations of the reform party to a halt.

RUNNING FOR PRESIDENT WITH A FEMALE PARTNER

James Inman of Looking Glass, Ore., Will Have a Woman as His Candidate for the Vice-Presidency of This Country.

Pennsylvania has a favorite son in the presidential race and he is backed by himself. Although born in this great state he is at present a citizen of Looking Glass, Ore., and therefore his reflections at least ought to be correct. He is James Inman, "independent candidate for president of the United States, subject to the decision of the voters at the coming November election," according to his stationery. He adds:

"My running mate, a woman, will be announced later." He does not say whether she is his wife or if he wishes to make the presidential team a domestic affair.

Candidate Inman has his views printed in a small folder, copies of which he has mailed to the leading publishers of this and foreign countries, to the chief executive, so that Roosevelt may know that he has a rival, to the members of the cabinet, the supreme bench, members of congress, ministers to foreign countries, foreign potentates and their ambassadors in this country. "Cyclone" Kirkland is not mentioned. Probably for fear that opposition parties may steal the planks from his platform he announces:

The platform or superstructure on which we propose to stand, if elected (and when I say we, I mean all that may agree with me in the principle, which will at no distant day be announced for the nation's consideration, and which is original), will become known later. Ours is a departure from the usual nominating conventions, and with a few exceptions will be a departure from the too long usage where money is profusely used in securing a nomination, and lavishly used in an election campaign. There will be no need on our part of the customary tapping of the "bar'l" in order to gain the ascendency.

His confidence in himself is sublime, and yet, after saying how he expects to gain the ascendency and how he has mailed copies of his views to the defeated Russian emperor, to the volatile William of Germany and the affable Edward of England, he goes on to state:

I may be the only man whoever ran for president, who, so far as I am personally concerned, cares but little whether elected or not. An all right dinner to all, with an owned home, good clothes and a good bed, is better than the charitable soup house, poor clothes and the station floor. If elected, we will try to give our large country an administration that all can be truly proud of, and that all nations will respect and admire.

This "three-square-meals-a-day" candidate heads his "announcement" with the paragraph: "To the voters and other people of the United States, and to whom it may concern of other countries, greeting," and he ends by subscribing himself "Saluting the world, and extending the hand of friendship to the human race."

MURDER IN ALLEGHENY.

Joseph Miller of South Canal Street Shot Down by Unknown Man.

What may prove to be a murder occurred shortly before 2 o'clock this morning at Third and East streets, Allegheny, when Joseph Miller of 879 South Canal street was shot down by a man still unknown to the Allegheny police.

At 3 o'clock this morning it was impossible to learn any of the details of the shooting, except that two shots were heard and a few minutes later Miller was found with two bullet wounds, one in the back of the head and the other in the hip.

Miller was taken to the Allegheny General hospital, where it is said that his wounds will prove fatal.

WHEELING MIDDY LOSES HIS LIFE

FOUR COMPANIONS RESCUED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

Annapolis, Md., May 15.—Midshipman Phillip Brittingham of Wheeling, W. Va., a member of the third class of the naval academy, was drowned about two miles off the naval academy this afternoon. The young man left the academy dock in a sailing launch with Midshipmen Anderson, Henderson, Towars and Stevenson, all of the third class. The boat was without center board or air tanks and being caught by a strong gust of wind, capsized and sank immediately. The five young men struggled in the water for about 20 minutes before help reached them from another academy boat containing several other midshipmen. As the rescuing sail boat came near oars were thrown to the struggling men, but Midshipman Brittingham was unable to grasp one of them.

Midshipman C. T. Blackburn, who was in the second boat, plunged overboard and in a heroic attempt to rescue his drowning classmate was dragged under. Both come to the surface, and Midshipman R. R. Stewart bravely went to the assistance of Blackburn. Their combined efforts proved unavailing and Brittingham sank in 17 feet of water. The other four midshipmen were picked up, and the rescuers dove overboard in repeated but unsuccessful efforts to find the body. Midshipman Brittingham was 19 years of age and a son of the Rev. Jacob Brittingham.

WHEELING, W. VA., May 15.—Midshipman Phillip Brittingham, who was drowned off the Annapolis naval academy today, was a son of the Rev. Jacob Brittingham, rector of St. Luke's Protestant Episcopal church of this city and was appointed to Annapolis on the recommendation of Congressman B. B. Dovener.

Rev. Dr. Brittingham was opening the evening service at St. Luke's when a telegram conveying the news of his son's death arrived. He was not acquainted with its contents until the services closed. The shock was terrible. The body, when found, will probably be interred at Moorefield, W. Va., where his mother, who was Florence V. Shearer of that place, is buried.

MYSTERIOUS LATE FIRE, AND MONEY MISSING

Nearly $400 Gone When Wife of Owner of Store Returns to Find It.

A mysterious fire occurred shortly before midnight at the grocery and butcher store of Stanislaus Grushinski, 1643 Penn avenue. Mr. Grushinski left his store early yesterday morning to visit his brother in Homestead. Shortly after 6 o'clock last night Mrs. Grushinski, with her baby, went to a Polish church, a short distance away. When she returned she found her home on fire. She told a reporter for The Gazette that she had $305 in a paper bag under the counter and then fainted, and was taken to the home of Mrs. Frances Williams, 60 Eighteenth street.

A search of the store by the firemen failed to locate the money, and an officer and the reporter went after Mrs. Grushinski, who returned to the store and, after an examination of the place where she had hidden the money, found it gone. There were no charred remains of it.

In the rear of the store six Polish families occupy a tenement house. Several of these families are on bad terms with Mrs. Grushinski and there has been a number of cross suits between them and the Grushinskis. Mrs. Williams, who acted as interpreter, said that Mrs. Grushinski told, about two weeks ago, that some of the Poles in the rear of the store threatened they would "fix" her and her husband. Mrs. Grushinski said she told her husband that he had better get their stock of goods insured, as she was afraid they would set the store on fire. Mrs. Grushinski said that there was no fire or light in the store when she left it, shortly after 6 o'clock, to go to the church entertainment.

The building is a small two-story brick. The store was well stocked and much of it is a total loss. The damage could not be estimated last night.

KENTUCKIAN SHOT FROM AMBUSH

One of Principal Witnesses Against Curtis Jett and Tom White Assassinated.

MRS. MARCUM'S SUIT DELAYED

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Jackson, Ky., May 15.—News reached here tonight of the assassination of Riley Coldiron in Perry county. Coldiron was with Capt. John Patrick, the principal witness against Curtis Jett and Tom White, who were convicted for the murder of James Cockrill, in Jackson, and was guarded by a squad of soldiers furnished by Col. Williams, commanding the Second regiment here during the grand jury investigation when he went to testify to what he knew of the murder. His home was not far from that of Abe Callahan, a brother to Sheriff Ed Callahan, who is a Hargis man, and the Callahan boys and Coldiron and his friends did not get along well.

Last night Coldiron was returning from the store on Troublesome creek, five miles from his home, when the sharp report of a Winchester startled the neighborhood and Coldiron fell from his horse. The section is overrun by the ruffian element and no arrests have been made. In fact, it is not known who is responsible for the deed. The body was not touched until this morning. The friends of the Callahan boys say they had gone to Jackson and were not in the vicinity of the place where the tragedy occurred. Coldiron said he saw three gun barrels sticking out of the court house window here when Jim Cockrill was assassinated, and recognized two of the assassins as Curtis Jett and Tom White.

WINCHESTER, KY., May 15.—The trial of the $100,000 damage suit against Judge James Hargis and Sheriff Ed Callahan of Breathitt county and Attorney B. F. French and ex-State Senator Alex Hargis of this place brought by Mrs. Abelia Marcum, charging them with the murder of her husband, James Marcum, at Jackson last June, will not be called by Judge Benton in circuit court here tomorrow, as announced. Judge Benton has granted a postponement of the trial until the September term of the court on a plea of the defense that they were not ready for trial owing to the fact that Judge John F. Harper of Ashland, their chief attorney, is ill and not able to appear in the case.

GORMAN PLANS TO BE DICTATOR

Is Ambitious to Control Nomination If He Cannot Himself Get It.

WOULD SUCCEED HILL

Leaders Close to Him Say He Aspires First to Defeat Hearst.

HIS STATE FOR ROOSEVELT

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

Baltimore, May 15.—Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, according to political leaders close to him, aspires to first defeat Hearst and then secure for himself the Democratic nomination for president. In his effort to do this he is trying to get in the position of the "power behind the throne" in the campaign for Judge A. B. Parker. The trip of the senator to New York is believed to have been to further his plans of concentrating uninstructed delegates against Hearst, and get in touch with the Judge Parker interests.

Gorman is anxious to replace Senator Hill and manage Judge Parker's interests. Then if he finds his own nomination impossible he hopes to get the credit for Parker's nomination if it is made.

The political drift of Maryland, since Cleveland's second administration, has been toward the Republican party, and on national issues the state has been safely anchored in the Republican ranks. Not since 1892 has Maryland been represented in the capitol at Washington wholly by Democrats, and not since 1894 have the Democrats had a majority of the congressional representation. In Maryland there is a large contingent of voters who display no interest in politics except when a president is to be elected. This class of voters is allied with the Republicans as is shown by a glance at the large vote polled by that party at presidential elections. Closely associated with this is another class of voters whose race prejudice incites them to vote the Democratic ticket at municipal and state elections, but whose Republican faith predominates when national issues are at stake. The Republicans are united on national issues, are holding office and have a candidate in Roosevelt who has carried Maryland.

The independents affiliate with them. The Democrats are divided and without office. Gov. Warfield and Mayor McLane having made their appointments without consulting the party leaders. Roosevelt can win without Maryland, but Parker needs Maryland. At present the outlook is not as favorable for Parker as for Roosevelt.

PRIEST INVENTS WIRELESS SYSTEM OF TELEGRAPH

Father Murgas Claims It Is More Complete Than That of Marconi.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WILKESBARRE, PA., May 15.—Father Joseph Murgas of the Sacred Heart church of this city yesterday received the sixth and seventh patents on his wireless telegraph system, and has now completed it for practical operation.

This week he will receive the offer of a company which is to put it on the market. Father Murgas claims of it that it is more complete than the Marconi system, and that twice as much speed in sending and receiving may be obtained, while it has a number of other improvements over the Marconi system. He has just completed a number of practical experiments between his house at one end of this city and a station at the other end, two miles away, with most satisfactory results.

Father Murgas took high honors in a Bavarian university and later at Vienna, 18 and 20 years ago, for his work in electrical science, and for the past seven years he has engaged in the system of wireless telegraphy which he has just perfected. He has at the same time established a large congregation here and built a church.

Famous Westerner Speaks of Roosevelt's Popularity

COL. DICK PLUNKETT.

A small dinner was given last evening at the Hotel Lincoln in honor of Col. Dick Plunkett, formerly of Oklahoma, but now of Alaska. Ex-Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska and James Deitrick, president of the United States and Nicaragua Company, were among the guests present. While in New York recently Col. "Dick" was the guest of Gen. Daniel Sickles, one of the most prominent army veterans. As Col. "Dick" puts it: "Gen. Sickles is the real thing. It would do you good to hear him and the president discussing things.

"Roosevelt is one of God's noblemen," said Col. Plunkett, "and as I have traveled all over the west, I can speak with some authority regarding Teddy's popularity there. He stands high in the opinion of the working classes especially. He is a scholar, a soldier, a patriot and a gentleman. All who knew him love him because of his simple manner. The truest Democrats today all over the west say that Teddy is the man."

Col. Plunkett, who is one of the most prominent men of the west, will be remembered as the one who, while United States marshal of Creede, Col., arrested Edward Kelley, the slayer of "Bob" Ford, who had killed Jesse James, the Missouri bravado. Col. "Dick" marshalled the first Indian chiefs who ever participated in the inauguration of a president. These Indian chiefs are rich, being worth $20,000 per capita.

They stood 6 feet 4 inches high and made a magnificent showing in the McKinley inauguration. The late president presented each of the chiefs with a medal which they continue to look upon with a devotion akin to worship. Col. Plunkett and Senator Thurston, who is a commissioner for the world's fair, will leave this evening for St. Louis.

RUSH TO TRAIN CAUSED DEATH

HEARTDISEASEFATAL

Life-Long Resident of Pittsburgh and Connected With Its Prominent Families.

COUSIN OF ROBERT PITCAIRN

Too great haste to catch a train caused the death of Mrs. Janet Pitcairn Campbell, aged 70, of 249 Amber street. She was seized with an attack of heart disease on a Pennsylvania railroad train and died in the East Liberty station at 7:30 o'clock last evening before medical aid could be summoned. Mrs. Campbell was a lifelong resident of this city and was well connected.

In company with her son, John G. Campbell, she went to Edgewood yesterday to visit another son, Andrew G. Campbell. She was apparently in excellent health and enjoyed herself greatly during the day. After bidding a cheerful good-by she started for the railroad station some distance away, her sons accompanying her.

Walked Rapidly to Station.

Fearful of missing the train they walked rapidly and upon reaching the depot Mrs. Campbell complained of feeling slightly ill, but assured her sons the illness was slight.

John G. Campbell went aboard the train with his mother and made her as comfortable as possible. By the time Wilkinsburg was reached she gradually began to grow worse and suddenly collapsed. A stretcher was procured from the baggage car and placed across the seats of the passenger coach, while several women on board attempted to revive the prostrate woman.

Their attempts were unavailing and when the train stopped at East Liberty it was evident that life was almost extinct. A hasty summons was sent to Dr. Thomas G. Neiland of 6223 Penn avenue and Dr. F. S. Kellogg of 6317 Station street. The train crew quietly removed Mrs. Campbell to the station. Many persons were waiting there for an eastern train and among them were several friends of the unconscious woman.

Died Before Physicians Arrived.

Every effort was made to prolong life until the arrival of the physicians, but she expired before they came. The remains were at once taken to her late residence in Amber street.

Mrs. Campbell was the widow of Andrew G. Campbell, who for many years was prominently connected with the Arnold-Constable Company, of New York. His death occurred about 13 years ago. She was born in this city and had lived here practically her entire life. She was a cousin of Robert Pitcairn and a sister of Artemas Pitcairn, vice president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

For nearly a half century Mrs. Campbell was prominent in the charitable work of the Swedenborgian church, Wallingford street, and was one of the oldest members in this city. She is survived by her two sons and several grandchildren. The arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

PITTSBURGH LADY WILL HAVE SUMMER MANSION

Mrs. H. M. Curry to Erect Expensive Home on the North Shore.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MANCHESTER, MASS., May 15.—Mrs. H. M. Curry of Pittsburgh has just completed the purchase of a large estate in Magnolia, and work has begun on what is to be one of the largest and most expensive summer homes on the north shore. Mrs. Curry, who for some summer seasons with her sons has leased and occupied Underwood cottage, has had plans drawn by Ward W. Ward, a New York architect, for a mansion 150x90 feet.

It will be three stories high, the first story granite and the other two stories of stucco with half timbered finish. The timber work will be more elaborate than is usually found. The house is to have a large central portion with two long wings set at angles. There will be about 35 rooms, including a living room 50x25 feet. A broad balcony on the water side with tiled flooring and a tiled roof with gables and dormer windows relieve it of severity. The property contains nearly 60,000 square feet.

COSSACK RAIDERS BRING TERROR TO THE KOREANS

Villagers Fleeing to Hills Before Advance of the Russian Cavalry.

[Associated Press Cable to The Gazette.]

SEOUL, May 15.—(6 p. m.)—Reports have been received here that 450 captured Russian officers and men will shortly be dispatched from Yongampo to Mojt, Japan.

The prefect of Tok-Chong, which is two days' march northeast of Anju, reports that 700 Cossacks arrived there the afternoon of May 8 and recommandeered provisions, forage and native ponies and to several instances seized money. The villagers fled to the hills.

On the morning of May 9 the Russians advanced to Kerchong from which place they attacked Anju. They submitted the women to indignities, broke open the local jail, freed the prisoners and kidnaped the jailer and the village headsmen.

BATTLESHIP REAL FIGHTING UNIT

RUSSIAN DISASTERS NO PROOF

"Neither torpedo boats nor submarine craft in the present state of development can make the battleship an affair of the past," said Rear Admiral George Melville, U. S. N., retired, hero of the Jeannette expedition to the frozen northern seas, later engineer-in-chief of Uncle Sam's navy, and now just returned from a trip broad, during which he made a careful study of the "wasps" of the navies of Great Britain, France and Germany.

"It is utterly preposterous to talk of the elimination of the battleship," he said. "The fact that several of this sort of craft were destroyed or badly damaged by torpedoes or submarine mines in the actions between the Russian and Japanese off Port Arthur means nothing, so far as the efficiency of the battleship is concerned. It is fully understood by all naval men that the torpedo, in itself a comparatively inexpensive contrivance, may put a battleship out of commission. But this proves nothing in the general discussion of naval power.

Dangerous in Proportion to Scope.

"The torpedo boat and kindred craft are dangerous just in proportion to their scope of operation. To deliver crushing blows to an enemy these vessels cannot be depended on. What is needed is the battleship for the main line, and they must be big enough to stand hard knocks and swift enough to seek and find positions of advantage. Then there must be the swift armored cruiser, that can either fight or show a clean pair of heels, the last, but perhaps as important as those others, a goodly supply of scout ships, light cruisers they may be called, for these are the eyes of the fleet.

"It is a very good principle of warfare to know what the enemy is up to. The battleship cannot find out, but the light, swift cruiser can, and then comes the time that the crushing force of the heavily armed and armored ship is needed. Once the vessels of the enemy are located and in a measure their movements learned, the scouts can readily turn the real fighting over to the big fellows and at the same time protect them from the attack of torpedo boats, for the latter cannot stand well directed fire from the quick loading and automatic guns of today.

Battleships Will Control.

"There is no question in my mind that the real control of the seas rests entirely with the power that concentrates in force a fleet or fleets of big ships. The question of cost is not to be discussed even though a torpedo boat costing perhaps $200,000 can, under certain favorable conditions, destroy a battleship worth $5,000,000.

"The principal question is to provide a means of protection for the more costly engines of war. This is solved by the scout ships. They must be fast and so armed as to prevent the passage of a torpedo boat flotilla. If the scout fleet is properly handled the battleships are comparatively safe and are ready to deal the really crushing blow when the opportunity offers."

MORE EVIDENCE FOUND IN FERGUSON MURDER

Prosecutors Held a Lengthy Conference at Washington, Pa., Behind Closed Doors.

It developed yesterday that the commonwealth is preparing to spring some surprises in the coming trial in Washington county of Milovar Patrovick, one of the men charged with the murder of Contractor J. S. Ferguson. Detective Richard Kelly went to Washington, Pa., yesterday afternoon and held a lengthy conference with District Attorney Owen C. Underwood. A number of witnesses, who will testify in the prosecution, including John Kelley, who saw the accused man near the scene of the crime, were examined.

All the testimony was carefully gone over and it was found that much new evidence, not introduced at the trial which resulted in the conviction of Milovar Kovovick, was now in possession of District Attorney Underwood. Although the conference was behind closed doors, it leaked out that the new evidence will result in a great surprise to the defense.

Since the conviction of Kovovick every effort has been made to further clear up the details surrounding the murder and in this the officers have been so successful that they anticipate no trouble in securing another conviction. Supt. McQuaide, who, with Detective Kelly, traced the prisoners to England and apprehended them, was unable to attend the conference.

WILL REVISE REPORTS.

Governor Notifies Heads of Departments That He Must Have First Look.

HARRISBURG, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Completed manuscript copies of all the official reports of the heads of the departments of the state government must hereafter be submitted to Gov. Pennypacker before they are sent to the superintendent of public printing to be printed by the state printer.

Written notices to this effect was sent by the governor yesterday to the heads of all departments. This innovation is in line with the governor's policy of asking the heads of departments to reduce the size of their annual reports for the purpose of cutting down the cost of the state printing.

Certain state officials who were elected direct by the people and do not owe their positions to the governor insist that he has no right to revise their reports and they will not comply with his order. They claim the superintendent of public printing, who is an appointee of the governor, is the only person clothed with authority to pass finally upon the subject matter of a department reports before they are sent to the state printer.

DEDICATION AT CLAYSVILLE.

Many Well-Known Clergymen Present at Opening of New Presbyterian Church.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Great crowds thronged the town of Claysville today, the occasion being the dedication of the new $25,000 Presbyterian church. There were ministers present from Wheeling, W. Va.; Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Crafton, Washington and many other points in Pennsylvania, besides some from Ohio and the west.

The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. James D. Moffatt, president of Washington and Jefferson college. The Rev. Frank Fish, the present pastor of the church, was master of ceremonies. Among the prominent speakers present were the Revs. Jesse C. Bruce of Crafton; W. A. McCarrell of Stripesburg; J. A. A. Craig of Canonsburg; W. I. Oliver of Lore City, O.; R. S. Calder of Monessen; Dr. J. F. Meuly of Waynesburg.

JAPANESE CRUISER WAS CRIPPLED

Oku's divisions are advancing in a line 150 kilometers long, while the strategically important town of Sin-Yen is being strongly fortified, with the object of securing the left flank of the main Japanese forces there. A large amount of artillery is being brought up.

The Novoe Vremya's military expert says delayed telegrams received show the Japanese are operating three armies. On all sides are heard nothing but pessimistic opinions. It is being openly admitted that the unexpected display of numbers by the enemy renders Gen. Kuropatkin's position critical in the extreme.

Lieut. Gen. Sakharoff has sent the following report to the general staff, dated Liao-Yang, May 14:

"The enemy's advance guard on May 12 reached Touintsou, on the road between Fung-Wang-Cheng and Liao-Yang. Our two sotnias of Cossacks retired toward the village of Kantsaendiantig. A Japanese force of three battalions of infantry, 10 guns and two squadrons of cavalry, from Seiudchan, on the road to Motien pass, was, on May 11, in Tafancon valley. Since then there has been no news of the movements of the force, which leads to the conclusion that it has branched off westward toward Hai-Cheng.

Afraid of Ambush.

"A detachment of the Japanese vanguard left Touintsou May 13 southward and was pursued by our Cossacks, who exchanged shots with the Japanese rear guard for half an hour, and having, in the meantime, discovered an ambush prepared by the Japanese, retired.

"Our scouts ascertained that a Japanese force of two regiments of infantry, eight guns and three squadrons of cavalry had approached Lindiaputse and Erutaoufan.

"Our line of patrols between Lans-Chan-Rouan and Cadmadza had a skirmish with Chinese bandits in which three Cossacks were slightly wounded and four missing. Measures are being taken to clear their district of Chinese bandits.

"The enemy's scouts have appeared about 19 miles southeast of Motien pass. All is quiet on the road from Sin-Yen to the pass. A reconnaissance to Ching-Tai-Taze did not discover any considerable number of the enemy.

"According to Chinese reports, Takushan and Ching-Tai-Taze are occupied by small Japanese detachments of 500 each. Stronger forces are at Kitoukhtchidge, 12 miles southwest of Takushan.

Skirmish With Patrol.

"Returning to Siu-Yen, the reconnoitering party had a skirmish with a small Japanese patrol. One Japanese dragoon was killed and one Cossack was wounded. There is no news from Silitchinaiputse.

"On May 8 a detachment of nearly 1,000 Japanese advanced seven miles north of Polandien. Another detachment of 300 infantry and half a squadron of cavalry advanced by a flanking movement to Wafantien. The troops guarding the frontier are slowly retiring northward, holding the enemy.

"On May 13 a force of 300 Chinese bandits attacked the mine at Yantai. The bandits were repelled by a sotnia of the frontier guards and a company of infantry, losing 30 men. They retired in the direction of Liao-Yang, and a detachment of chasseurs was sent to cut them off. At dawn the following day, according to information received, a strong force of Chinese bandits was seen in localities 12 miles west of Liao-Yang."

News from Port Arthur.

The emperor has received the following report from Viceroy Alexieff, dated May 14:

"I beg respectfully to communicate to your majesty a report from Rear Admiral Wirtsoeft on the state of affairs at Port Arthur from May 3 to May 12. The report was brought by express runner from Dachichao station on the eve of the second interruption of communications by the enemy. It follows:

"The enemy's squadron, composed of ironclads, cruisers and torpedo boats, appeared off Port Arthur May 5 and continues to blockade without undertaking active operations. The work of repairing the ironclads Czarevitch and Retvizan is proceeding with unabated energy and with every success.

"During an examination of the roadstead and fairway at the spot where the battleship Pobieda was damaged by a mine found one of the enemy's defense mines, which had been exploded by the force of the hurricane.'"

Troops Are Inspected.

Grand Duke Vladimir today inspected 10 companies of the men of the second reserve, who are called up whenever mobilization brings the first reserve into the active army. To the number of 1,000 they paraded through Krasnoye Selo 16 miles from St. Petersburg, where the guards are encamped. They afterward practiced at the rifle ranges and made an average of 32 per cent of hits. As it has been 15 years since the men saw active service, the grand duke was highly pleased with the result.

The street sales of the Viedomosti have been suspended because of the publication of a letter from M. Amfiteatroff on Siberian colonization. May 12.

ANTUNG, May 8.—(Special Cable.)—Regarding their plan of campaign the Japanese explain that it was changed at the last moment. It had been intended originally that the second army should land at Takushan, but owing to the successful issue of the battle at Kiu-Lien-Cheng it was decided the landing should occur to the northeast of Dalny. One division of the second army, however, is to be used according to the original plan of campaign. A number of unimportant actions are constantly occurring between the Japanese and Russian scouts.

Many trophies taken from the Russians in the great battle at Kiu-Lien-Cheng have been brought here by the Japanese. They include 20 field guns, 8 Maxims, 2,000 rifles, 50 small arm munition carts, half mill, and 2,000 shells. Among other spoils of war are many carts, kitchen wagons, axes, besides innumerable ikons and prayer books.

SEWING MACHINES LOST.

Agent Is Charged in Elmira, N. Y., With Grand Larceny.

Frank C. Jetto, an agent for the White Sewing Machine Company, was arrested at his home, 58 Charles street, Allegheny, yesterday on advice from F. J. Cassady, chief of police of Elmira, N. Y. He is wanted there on a charge of grand larceny, a bench warrant having been issued for his arrest.

Jetto told the detectives who arrested him that the charge is made by the Singer Sewing Machine Company, for which he acted as an agent in Elmira two years ago. He said a number of machines were lost, as is always the case in that business, and he is asked to make good a loss of $820. He is willing to go to Elmira without papers.

GRADUATES LISTEN TO BACCALAUREATE SERMONS

In the Monongahela valley yesterday many baccalaureate services were held. The Duquesne High school listened to one from the Rev. Frederick Hayes of Grove City college in the new free library; North Braddock borough High school celebrated in the First Methodist Episcopal church, with a union service, in which eight congregations took part. The sermon was by the Rev. Arthur Staples, president of Beaver college. At East McKeesport the services took place in the Presbyterian church, and the Union High school of Turtle Creek held services in the United Presbyterian church, Turtle Creek.

U. S. Ships Sail for Lisbon.

PLAYA DEL ESTE, CUBA., May 15.—The battleships Kearsarge, Alabama, Maine and Iowa sailed today for Fayal, Azores, en route for Lisbon. The cruisers Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland sailed Friday for St. Thomas, where they will coal and later join the battleships at Fayal.

CHINESE THROW OFF THE MASK

ment of the neutrality of China by Japan, and that Chinese troops, by not crossing the Manchurian frontier, could not be charged with a violation of pledges in respect to non-interference in military operations in Manchuria.

Plans Are Outlined.

The opinion of an eminent strategist, given today, is that the Japanese intend to attack not only Liao-Yang, but all along the line in an effort to drive Gen. Kuropatkin into Mongolia, where the Chinese are waiting for him.

Knowing these conditions, Gen. Kuropatkin, he said, would not be likely to make a serious resistance at Kai-Ping or Hai-Cheng, but would withdraw to the north. This would enable the Japanese to march on Niuchwang with little hindrance, and their unopposed use of that point as a base from which men and supplies could be sent north without any violation of the neutral zone west of the Liao river.

PEKIN, May 15.—(Special Cable, Herald Copyright.)—On May 13 the Japanese minister, in a private audience with Prince Ching, informed him of the strongly expressed wish of the Japanese government that China preserve a strict neutrality, and also requested Prince Ching to notify the legations of the audience.

On May 14 the Japanese minister called at the legations, informing them of his requests of Prince Ching. The foreign office has sent each legation the following dispatch:

"The Chinese government considers it is its duty, owing to false and alarming reports in various journals, to inform the foreign ministers that the Chinese government is firmly resolved to adhere to the strict rules of neutrality."

CZAR TO SAY FAREWELL TO DEPARTING TROOPS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, May 15.—At Tsarkoe Selo today the emperor, the empress and Grand Duke Michael, the heir presumptive, said farewell to the troops who are about to start for the far east.

The empress accompanied the troops as far as the pavilion in the palace grounds, where the royal party received the officers and men and bade them adieu. The troops then paraded before the pavilion, in front of which they were afterwards drawn up. The soldiers cheered lustily on the appearance of the emperor, who personally wished them "God speed."

The emperor almost immediately started on a journey which will occupy eight or nine days, when at nine different points the ceremony of bidding farewell to departing troops will be repeated.

When returning to St. Petersburg the emperor will probably halt at Moscow to pray at the shrine of the trinity in the Sergius monastery and implore victory for Russian arms in accordance with the traditions of his ancestors.

The people here have been looking forward with keen pleasure to this visit of the emperor ever since the war broke out. The emperor's journey will cover almost 2,000 miles.

JAPAN IS LAUDED.

Speaker at Missionary Convention Says Mikado's Victory Will Aid Christianity.

CHICAGO, May 15.—All the states of the middle west, especially Indiana, Missouri, Texas, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee were represented at the opening session of the twenty-fourth annual convention of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, Missionary Women's societies which began here today.

The annual sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. W. L. Darby of Kirksville, Mo., who spoke on "The Greatest War in the World." The speaker declared that a victory for Japanese would do more for Christianity and civilization, because her strides in civilization are longer and surer than those of Russia. The unexpected military power displayed by Japan, he declared, was indirectly the fruit of the civilization that has crept into the little empire through the efforts of American missionaries.

PROUD OF HIS FOE.

Kuropatkin Tells Wounded Japanese Guardsman He Knows Mettle of Enemy.

LIAO-YANG, May 15.—General Kuropatkin, while making an inspection of the hospitals, said to a wounded Japanese guardsman:

"I visited your country, and saw your active people. Now I am convinced that you are excellent soldiers, and I am proud to meet such a foe."

To this the guardsman replied:

"My nation wanted war and will fight to the last, but it is Japan's luck that Russia is vulnerable here."

FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

Catholic Union Holds Enthusiastic Meeting at Irwin—Women Elect Officers.

IRWIN, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The spring meeting of the Catholic Total Abstinence society of this district was held here this afternoon and all parts of the county were represented by the 500 people in attendance.

The Rev. Thomas McEurne delivered the address of welcome, and he was followed by the Rev. John G. Beane and P. W. Joyce of Pittsburgh in addresses. The Rev. J. J. Grady of Madison spoke of total abstinence from a business standpoint. George Barton of Greensburg made an address, and Richard Hitchens of Irwin spoke on the unity of all temperance organizations.

The woman's branch of the total abstinence society elected the following officers: Mrs. P. B. Heusley, president; Miss Marie Carroll, vice president; Miss Anna McCabe, secretary, and Miss Madeline Pringeman, treasurer. The Misses Nellie Durkin, Anna Horgan and Margaret Joyce were elected delegates to the convention of the union. The annual convention of the union of the Pittsburgh diocese will be held here in June.

ALPHA CHI SOCIETY ELECTS GRAND OFFICERS

JURY TOOK THIRTY HOURS TO DECIDE

The jury in the Morrisey-Beatty breach of promise case came to a conclusion yesterday afternoon, and at 4 o'clock placed a sealed verdict in the hands of Deputy Marshal William M. Henry, who had the jury in charge.

The jury went out at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and was out longer than any other jury in a similar case in the United States court.

The verdict will be opened when court convenes this morning.

JACKIES' MASCOTS TUMBLE VISITORS INTO THE WATER

Jealous Monkey of Cruiser Dixie Fights Goat of the Columbia and Spectators Are Knocked Overboard, but Rescued.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Jocko, the pet monkey of the cruiser Dixie, and Mickey, the goat mascot of the cruiser Columbia, mixed it up at League Island navy yard today. Result: Two visitors and an apprentice knocked overboard, thrilling rescues, several spring hats ripped to bits and the loss of a huge bunch of Mickey's whiskers. There has been blood upon the moon since the arrival of the Dixie last week. Until that time Mickey was the idol of the yard. When Jocko came, however, things were different. The Simian immediately became a warm favorite. Mickey, from his behavior, evidently felt the slight. Today the yard was crowded with visitors, and many were on the Dixie, with Jocko as the center of attraction. Mickey, who has the freedom of the yard, wandered up the gangplank of the Dixie. A sailor from the Columbia who happened to be on board, knowing the goat's habits, drew a clay pipe from his pocket and placed it in the goat's mouth. The beast puffed delightedly, and immediately Jocko was forgotten.

Jocko watched jealously for a moment and then sprang at his rival. A whistling, biting mass flew round and round the deck. The brute struck a dignified old man, who fell off the gangplank into the water. A small boy was their next mark, and he got a ducking. An apprentice seized the animals, but Mickey indignantly butted him away, and the embryo jackie went overboard like the others. A squad of marines finally separated the pair, while sailors rescued the trio that had fallen overboard. Jocko sprang away from the marines and, in his endeavor to escape through the panic-stricken visitors, made ribbons out of several stunning spring hats.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS FOR CONSERVATIVE MAN

Guffey Says Delegation Will Go to St. Louis Concerned in No Boom.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—There is no organized movement in Pennsylvania for Judge Parker or any other candidate for the presidential nomination by the St. Louis convention. Whatever deal or arrangement Col. James M. Guffey may make, Guffey being a member of the national committee and the leader of the organization in Pennsylvania, will be promptly acquiesced in by the Pennsylvania delegation. Mr. Guffey is now in consultation with Chief Murphy of Tammany Hall, the leaders of the New Jersey delegation and also with the uninstructed delegation of New England. Mr. Guffey believes these interests will hold the balance of power at the St. Louis convention.

Col. Guffey tonight authorized this statement: "The Pennsylvania delegation will go to St. Louis pledged to no candidate and concerned in no boom or interest. The commonwealth's representatives will confer with the delegates of the different states and, after ascertaining the sentiment of the Democracy in the various local cities of the country, will endeavor to bring about the nomination of a conservative Democrat who will unite all interests and make the election of the Democratic nominee for president a strong probability."

DO NOT JUDGE CHINESE BY THOSE IN AMERICA

Prince Pu Lun Says Most of Them Are of Lower Classes.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, May 15.—Prince Pu Lun, heir apparent to the throne of the Chinese empire, and a party of government officials, secretaries and servants, arrived in Chicago at 5:30 o'clock last evening from St. Louis. Prince Pu Lun, through his interpreter, expressed himself as being deply grateful to the American people for the hearty manner in which he has been received in this country. He further said:

"Yes, I saw some of my own people here, but most of them are of the lower classes, and I would not like you Americans to judge my people from the Chinese you find here. You have bad classes yourself, you know, and when you hear of a Chinaman gambler causing trouble just remember that he is one of a criminal element who has no standing with his people. I have been away from Pekin eighty days and have not heard from my general as to the progress of the war. Japan is a plucky little country, but Russsia is a large one, and the outcome of the war is a conjecture. China is absolutely neutral as far as I have been advised, but how long it will remain so, I cannot say."

Escaped in Night Clothes.

A fire which started from defective electric wiring in the fruit store of Charles Bodi, an Italian, in a large frame building owned by Mrs. Mary Crich in Linden avenue, East Pittsburgh, last night burned out the first and second floors, and caused the injury of Volunteer Fireman Martin Savey. The occupants of the flat on the third floor escaped in their night clothes. Bodi, Mrs. Crich, Lu Seng, a Chinese laundryman, and Frank Mormon, owner of the barber shop in the building, sustained losses. Fireman Savey's right arm was broken. He fell from the top of a ladder. The total loss will not exceed $1,200.

Mother and Babe Homeless.

Mrs. Susan Lossing of Ann street called at Central police station with her 9-months-old baby, last night, and asked for lodging. She said her husband had been out of work for some time and had gone to look for employment some days ago and did not return. The room rent was due and she had been told to vacate the place at once. She has no friends she can go to and asked for shelter for herself and baby. It was given her until she can apply for aid today at the department of charities.

Bridge Collapses; Four Drowned.

RENO, NEV., May 15.—By the breaking of one of the spans of the suspension tramway across the Truckee river at Lawton Springs, five miles west of this city, at 2 o'clock today, four young people, Maurice Jacobs, a young business man of this city; Miss McMillan, daughter of a prominent business man of Reno; Mrs. Eds, Jr., and a Mr. Kingsley of Chicago, were precipitated from the car into the swollen stream and drowned.

Mormon Conference at Parkersburg.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., May 15.—(Special.)—The Northern West Virginia conference of the Mormon church was held here in the city building today. Elder Wooley presided. Public sentiment prevented the use of the school house, but the public hall in the city building was rented and the meeting went on without interruption. About 40 elders are here.

Sewing Machine Man Arrested.

Emperor So Explains the Extraordinary Credits—Budget Bewilders the People.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BUDAPEST, May 15.—In a speech at the reception of the delegations today, Emperor Francis Joseph said, in part: "Our relations with all the powers are permanently excellent. Our firmly established connection with our allies, supplemented by a close understanding with Russia regarding questions in the Balkans, fills us with confidence in the peaceful developments of affairs in our continent. A most regrettable event is the war which is raging in the far east, which has already cost great sacrifices of life. May it please Divine Providence to confine this murderous conflict within the narrowest possible limits of time and space and again bestow upon the world the inestimable blessing of peace."

The speech further referred to the extraordinary credits by which, the emperor declared, the preparedness of the military and naval forces of the monarchy for war will be increased and at the same time an economic interest would be promoted. He says reforms in the Balkans were proceeding satisfactorily.

VIENNA, May 15.—The enormous budget demands for the army and navy (carrying a total of $61,791,200) have caused the utmost bewilderment among all parties. Nobody is able to understand the government's sudden desire to hasten the completion of the military program which had been planned to extend over several years, but it is supposed that the experiences of the Russo-Japanese campaign are not unconnected therewith.

HELD DRESS REHEARSAL.

Bostonians Were Busy Last Night Getting Ready for New Opera.

It was in the early hours this morning when the players finished their last act of the dress rehearsal of the new comic opera, "Queen of Laughter," at the Nixon theater. Although tired and weary, the singers were glad the last rehearsal was over, and expressed themselves so as they went to their dressing rooms.

The opera is fully of pretty songs and music. The costumes are also neat and striking in their appearance. The chorus has been well drilled in its songs, dances and movements about the stage. There are many funny and laughable incidents in the theme of the opera. The most striking and laugh producing character is that of King Melancholy, which is taken by the veteran, George Frothingham, who is admirably fitted for the part. Frothingham's songs and dances are especially mirth provoking.

WIFE OF CONSUL GENERAL MAYER DIES AT SEA

NEW YORK, May 15.—The steamer Philadelphia from Southampton arrived today. Among the passengers was Dr. D. Mayer, U. S. consul general at Buenos Ayres. Mrs. Mayer died during the voyage from Buenos Ayres to England, and her body was brought to port. Mr. Mayer is from West Virginia.

Supposed Pittsburgher Dead.

CLEVELAND, O., May 15.—Edwin Brinkerhoff, supposed to be a Pittsburgh stock broker, was found dead in bed at No. 50 Huron street this evening. In the room were two empty and two full bottles of morphine. A letter indicated that Mrs. W. T. Sharp of Cadiz, O., knew Brinkerhoff's relatives.

Denver Policeman Assassinated.

DENVER, COL., May 15.—Lyte Gregory, a former policeman, was assassinated this morning while he was returning home from a social visit with friends. His body was riddled with bullets and he died in his tracks. In all 10 bullets penetrated the murdered man's body. No positive trace of the assassin has been found. The murder occurred in West Third avenue, near South Water street, a section of the city inhabited by the working class.

Parade of Colonial Babies.

Five babies that have been born at the Colonial, Wilkinsburg, will be the central figures in a parade to take place May 30. Altogether there are 15 babies at the Colonial less than six months old. In the parade the youngsters will occupy carriages and with Messrs. Speer and Martin, the proprietors, carrying banners, will make a circle about the building. Hundreds of spectators are expected.

Bedford Murder Trial Today.

BEDFORD, IND., May. 15.—(Special.)—The trial of James McDonald on the charge of murdering Miss Sarah Schafer, teacher of Latin in the Bellefford High school, will commence tomorrow.

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system.

Pimples, boils, eczems and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." MRS. IDA O. BROWN, Rumford Falls, Me.

M. P. CONFERENCE CONVENES FRIDAY

Union With Congregationalists and United Brethren Is to Be Considered.

C. E. UNION ALSO TO MEET

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The general conference of the Methodist Protestant church is to begin here next Friday and probably will continue in session 10 days. The meetings of the conference will be held in the North Carolina Methodist Protestant church, Eighty-sixth and B streets, S. E.

The Rev. Dr. D. S. Stephens, chancellor of the Kansas City university, is president of the general conference, and the Rev. H. L. Elddeica is the secretary. The most important matter that is to come before the conference is the discussion of the proposed union with the Congregationalists and the United Brethren. The matter has been talked of by the individual churches, largely in a tentative and informal way, but none of the three has, as yet, taken any definite action. The Methodist church will be the first to take up the matter for formal discussion and to agree or disagree for union. The future of the movement, therefore, depends upon the decision of the conference.

Incidental to the general conference will be the 12th annual convention of the Methodist Protestant Christian Endeavor union, which is to begin on the 18th inst., and is to continue in session several days. Its meetings, also, will be held in the North Carolina Methodist Protestant church. The officers of the union, of which C. H. Hubbell of Columbus, O., is president, expect 1,000 delegates to be present.

DIED UNDER ANAESTHETIC.

Patient Expired Before Operation Was Performed—Death from Accident.

William Gallagher, aged 42, a bartender of Lydia street, died while under an anaesthetic, administered to perform an operation, at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been troubled for more than a year with an abscess on his leg above the knee.

He consented finally to an operation and died almost immediately after the drug had been administered, and before the surgeons had used an instrument.

A load of wheelbarrows fell off a car in the Ft. Wayne railroad shop in Allegheny on Saturday. One of the barrows fell on the stomach of Peter Simonek, aged 25, of 43 Prospect street. He died at 7 o'clock last evening.

Celebrated Fifteenth Anniversary.

The South avenue chapter of the Epworth league of Wilkinsburg celebrated the 15th anniversary of the league in the Wilkinsburg Methodist Episcopal church, last night, at a special service. The following officers were installed: President, A. W. Downing; vice presidents, Miss Edna Smith, Miss Helen Pershing, William R. Mollison, Miss Fanny Denlinger; secretary, W. Wise; treasurer, H. J. Lynch.

"Jack the Spitter" Fined.

J. W. Horsefield, known in Lawrenceville as "Jack the Spitter," was fined $50 yesterday by Magistrate Kane for spitting tobacco juice on the dress of Miss Millie Vetter of Fifty-second street, Friday night. Horsefield is a machinist employed at the H. K. Porter locomotive works.

ENGLISH COUNTESS WEDS HER YOUNG COACHMAN

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

(Copyright, 1904, by New York Herald Co.)

LONDON, May 15.—Society has been shocked by the details of a wedding that occurred at St. George's church, Hanover square, on the morning of April 30. The bride was Emma Sophia Georgiana, dowager countess of Ravensworth, and the bridegroom, who was described on the marriage certificate as a steward of full age, was James William Wadsworth, who up to the date of the ceremony has been in the employ of the countess as her coachman. With the exception of the bride and bridegroom, two witnesses, one of the curates of St. George's officiated, and a clerk, there was no one present in the church. The address of both principals was given in the certificate as 15 Upper Grosvenor street, the bride's town house.

The bridegroom is a smart, handsome young man of about 28 years of age. During the week following the ceremony he continued to live at the countess' stables and resumed his duties as coachman. The countess and Wadsworth are now in the country on their honeymoon. She is a daughter of the late Right Hon. Richard Denman. The countess married in 1872 Major Gerwin C. Baker Cresswell, and secondly, in 1893, the second Earl of Ravensworth, who died in 1903.

M'DERMOTT WINS.

Gains Nomination to West Virginia Senate Over Two Rival Candidates.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA., May 15.—(Special.)—With only three of the 22 precincts missing, returns from the Republican primary held in this county, show the nomination of Col. Joseph McDermott to the state senate, over Ed M. Grant and Alpheus Garrison, by nearly 500 majority. McDermott had the backing of Senator S. B. Elkins.

The county ticket is as follows: Sheriff, Theodore Parker; prosecuting attorney, C. W. Cramer; for member of the state legislature, Altha Warman and Zimri Ammons; county commissioner, Cyrus Fife; county assessors, P. B. Core and George Van Gilder.

SAW DEATH NEAR.

Morgantown Man Run Over by Train Recognized the Last Summons.

WHEELING, W. VA., May 15.—(Special.)—"Billy, I'm gone." With these words, addressed to Will C. Leo, D. C. Jenkins of Morgantown gasped his last breath, after having been run down by a Baltimore & Ohio freight engine at Bannock, O., today.

Jenkins, who was foreman for one of the contractors doing railroad work in that section, was riding with Leo on a "speeder." When they heard a warning whistle behind them, Leo fell off beside the track and was uninjured. Jenkins was too late. One leg was crushed, one ear severed and several ribs were broken. He died in a few minutes.

PITSBURGHER BADLY HURT; NOW IN HOSPITAL

NEW CASTLE, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Joseph Bonner, who gives his home at Lawrenceville, Pittsburgh, was found this morning in the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie yards here, badly injured. He was taken to the hospital. Bonner says he came here last night with two companions from Sharon on a freight and was knocked off by being struck by a switch arm.

HANGED HIMSELF IN THE BELFRY

"Steeple Jack," Famous Pittsburgh Character, Takes His Life in Chicago.

HAD ILLUSTRIOUS ANCESTRY

Poor old "Steeple Jack" is dead. Apparently demented as the result of a fractured skull, received in a fall several years ago, and depression because of his father's death, which occurred just a month ago, William Johnston, better known throughout the country as "Steeple Jack," hung himself in the belfry of the Emmanuel Baptist church, Chicago, some time Friday, and his body was discovered dangling 125 feet in the air, while the Sabbath school was in session in the church yesterday afternoon.

Johnston, who was 57 years of age, was born and lived for many years in the old Johnston homestead, 2233 Webster avenue, and is familiar to old-time Pittsburghers for his courage as a steeple painter. Many times in recent years he had climbed the cathedral steeple and painted the domes and flagstaffs of many of the tall buildings in this city. Probably his last work here was the painting of the flagstaff on the Farmers bank building. His vocation carried him all over the country and he was a constant traveler.

Body Found in Belfry.

Yesterday afternoon Arthur Shaffer, a boy of 10, started with a companion to look for pigeons in the church steeple. They had climbed as far as the nickel-o stairway leads and had ascended considerably farther to a rude staging, when they saw a man's coat. Looking up among the dusty beams, far above them, they beheld the swaying feet of a man. The lads were so frightened that they could scarcely climb down the ladder which led to the ground.

When, with white faces, they told the Rev. Johnson Myers, the pastor, he dismissed the Sunday school and went to investigate. He found Johnston's body just as described by the boys and sent for the police. An officer climbed up to the body with much difficulty, for the staging was of the flimsiest character, but, with assistance, the rope was cut and the dead man brought down to the street. In the pocket of the coat was a memorandum book in which was written:

"Well, I see that nothing but my death will satisfy an outraged public. Therefore, I give it up. But I will be my own executioner. I am sorry I had no other place to break my bones, but I hope the pastor will overlook it this time."

In another place was written:

"I feel from my head to my toes I'm from Dowie City. Verdict: I'll go to hell, but you'll have to dig for it."

Writing History of His Life.

Johnson, who sometimes was known as William McGready, slept in the basement of 3025 Vincennes avenue and had been engaged, so he said, in writing a history of his life. He referred to himself as "Steeple Jack, the Human Fly."

Johnson came from an illustrious family who figured prominently in the early history of Pittsburgh and of the country. His great-grandmother was Elizabeth Smith, daughter of the owner of Smith's fields, through which Smithfield street was cut and after whom the street was named. His great-grandfather, John Shea, was one of the largest land owners of early Pittsburgh and was one of the 18 men who comprised the "Wilson Lambs," a company that left Washington's main division during the revolutionary war to journey down the Ohio river to New Orleans after powder, of which the army was greatly in need. They were gone eight months and suffered great hardship, for which they were each granted 1,000 acres of land by congress at the following session. His grandfather, William Johnson, was a forty-niner and a pioneer and farmer and owner in Sewickleyville, while his father, also William Johnson, was a well-known contractor and civil war veteran.

Johnson is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Viola Anders of Monessport, and Mrs. Anna Hunt of Allegheny, and a step-sister, Miss Agnes Johnson of 2233 Webster avenue.

COL. GUFFEY RETURNS FROM NEW YORK TRIP

Col. James M. Guffey returned yesterday morning from New York, where he held several conferences with Democratic leaders of national prominence.

Col. Guffey met Senator W. J. Stone of Missouri, Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, Charles F. Murphy of Tammany, Ex-Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania, the Democratic state chairman, J. K. P. Hall, and Charles Donnelly, the Philadelphia Democratic chairman, and other Pennsylvanians took part in several of the conferences.

It was the unanimous opinion of the Pennsylvanians that there was nothing in the situation to call for a change in the attitude of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic national convention. They and Col. Guffey agreed that the Pennsylvania delegates would look over the field at the convention and cast their vote for the best man.

"There has been some talk of you as the Democratic national chairman. Was the national chairmanship brought up?" Col. Guffey was asked.

"No, the subject was not discussed at any of the conferences I attended." Col. Guffey replied. "I am not now and never have been a candidate for the national chairmanship."

COLDEST WEATHER FOR MAY IN MANY YEARS

For the middle of May, yesterday was the coldest day in more than half a dozen years. The minimum temperature was 41 degrees, or 14 below normal, and the maximum temperature was 51 degrees, or 9 degrees below normal. Winter overcoats and wraps were a common sight in the street yesterday. The government weather officials said that a marked rise in the temperature is expected some time today, but that the weather this morning would probably continue cool.

Reports from the north and west yesterday were that the temperature in those sections was much higher than in this part of the country and that rains were falling in many points west of the Mississippi. No frost and consequent damage to crops is expected.

Last evening at 6:30, as the sun was setting, Pittsburghers were treated to a beautiful rainbow, which was regarded as a decided novelty in the present weather.

A distinguished English critic, recently visiting an American publisher, picked up a copy of Ainslee's, and remarked: "There is one thing to be said about this magazine, and that is, when you see poetry in it it is sure to be real poetry, and not merely a filler." The readers of this very successful publication generally say the same thing about the balance of the contents. The June number, for instance, has, as the complete novelette, a charming story by Archibald Eyre, author of "The Trider." Mr. Eyre's new story is entitled "The Custodian," and, in point of interest, is equal to his best work.

Extraordinary Heavy Bail Demanded in a Small Case. Sommerville Admitted His Offense, but Will Be Released from Jail Today.

Although in jail in default of $15,000 bail, A. G. Sommerville, clerk of the Pittsburgh Oil and Gas Company, arrested by Detective Roger O'Mara Saturday night, is charged with taking only $300 in bond coupons, T. N. Barnsdall, president of the company, will have the larceny information withdrawn this morning and Sommerville will be released. Sommerville lives in Stockton avenue, Allegheny.

Sommerville's arrest was surrounded with mystery. The fact that he was held on an unusually large bail bond created the opinion that he had been suspected of a serious offense. The officers maintained the utmost secrecy about the case, and this added to the mystery.

Sommerville was employed by the company for about six months. He came to this city from New York, well recommended, and was given a position as bookkeeper and bond clerk, by H. B. Kester, chief clerk. Sommerville started to drink about a month ago. Seven coupons disappeared. Three of the coupons were on the Pittsburgh Oil and Gas Company, two of the Pittsburgh Terminal Company and two of the Buckeye Oil and Gas Company. The Buckeye Oil and Gas Company coupons were due for collection, and were missed from the safe.

Sommerville was unable to give the officers of the company any satisfactory information about their disappearance, except that he had tendered them in payment for drink in disorderly houses. Detective O'Mara was engaged to find the coupons. They were found in two houses in lower Second avenue. Sommerville was arrested at his home on a charge of larceny, made by Chief Clerk Kester before Alderman C. F. Anderson.

When Sommerville was arrested Kester thought he had disposed of seven bonds, valued at $1,000 each. Kester suggested that Sommerville's bail be fixed at $15,000, and this was done.

Sommerville was taken to jail by Detective O'Mara and E. F. Gilpin, an officer employed by O'Mara. He became despondent when he was being taken to the jail, and said he would take his life if the opportunity presented itself.

"I spent the money to be a good fellow," said Sommerville, as he was led away by the officers.

President Barnsdall was seen at his rooms last night and was surprised that Chief Clerk Kester had had the bond fixed at $15,000.

"Sommerville took only about $300," said President Barnsdall. "There is nothing mysterious about the case. Sommerville got intoxicated and spent the company's money. I don't intend to prosecute him, as I have the coupons. Sommerville will have to secure another position though, that's all."

CHARGES BROUGHT AGAINST COMBINE

Fischer Says Upperman, Shenkel and Hermes Aided Benz to Kill Switch Grant.

FIGHT ON IN SELECT TODAY

There will be a fight in select council today over the switch ordinance of the Fischer Foundry and Machine Company, which has been held up in councils for the past three years. An effort will be made to take the ordinance out of the hands of the special committee to which it was referred at the last meeting for the purpose of burying it, but John J. Shenkel, chairman of the committee, is opposed to any action being taken on it, and he will attempt to line up the combine to defeat the bill.

Frederick F. Fischer, president of the Fischer Foundry and Machine Company, made the charge yesterday that John Benz, a former member of select council and president of the Duquesne Brewing Company, was responsible for the holdup of the ordinance for the past three years, and that while Benz is no longer a member of select council, leaders of the combine are determined to defeat the measure because Benz has asked them to.

Fischer states that Select Councilman Peter Hermes is also involved in the holdup. Hermes is employed by the company, a company that left Washington's main division during the revolutionary war to journey down the Ohio river to New Orleans after powder, of which the army was greatly in need. They were gone eight months and suffered great hardship, for which they were each granted 1,000 acres of land by congress at the following session. His grandfather, William Johnson, was a forty-niner and a pioneer and farmer and owner in Sewickleyville, while his father, also William Johnson, was a well-known contractor and civil war veteran.

Benz Broke Two Agreements.

"Benz entered into an agreement with me twice that the switch should be built and that he would assist in passing the ordinance in councils, but he violated the agreement and did everything in his power to prevent the passage of the ordinance," said Fischer. "Benz tried to shift the responsibility upon the board of directors of the brewing company and said they objected to the switch being extended to our place because the company could not keep cars standing on the switch, although the company has no right to do this."

The Fischer plant is between South Twentieth and Twenty-first streets and the Duquesne brewery between South Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets. It is proposed to extend the switch, which now connects the brewery with the tracks of the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad from the brewery to the Fischer plant, about 400 feet along Edwards alley.

Fischer contends that the extension of the switch to his plant would not interfere with the brewery. Benz would not have been able to prevent the switch being extended but for the fact that he was a member of select council and that he is now aided by the members of the new combine of that body.

New Combine Blocks Ordinance.

"I have been told by Select Councilmen Shenkel and Upperman that they would oppose the ordinance to accommodate Benz. We are led to believe that both Benz and Hermes are responsible for the measure being held up so long. Hermes is a close friend of the honorable mayor and, therefore, he has some influence in councils."

Fischer said he called upon Director Bigelow about the matter recently and Bigelow promised to have the ordinance passed.

Although the committee appointed to consider the ordinance was instructed last Monday to report at the next meeting of select council, Chairman Shenkel has not called a meeting of the committee to take any action. There are three members of the committee—Shenkel, C. H. West and Joseph H. Schlernitzauer. West and Schlernitzauer are in favor of the ordinance.

READY FOR MANUFACTURERS

Plans Completed for the Convention of the Association.

Among the delegates to attend the convention of the Manufacturers' Association of America who arrived in the city yesterday are David M. Parry of Indianapolis, president of the association, and Marshall Cushing of New York, secretary. The program for the convention will be submitted to the executive committee this morning.

The convention will open at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning in Carnegie Music hall. The sessions will be held daily, and it is not expected that night sessions will be necessary. The convention expects to close at noon on Thursday.

The local committee has prepared an elaborate program for the entertainment of the visiting delegates, their wives and daughters. There will be carriage rides, a boat excursion and, on Tuesday night, a ball in the Hotel Schenley.

CONCERTS IN THE PARKS.

Despite Chill Weather There Were Large Crowds at the Resorts.

At Kennywood park yesterday there was a crowd despite the weather. In the new vaudeville theater the imported Croatian orchestra of 10 pieces, directed by Anton L. Jordan, made a hit. They played sixteen numbers. Calhoun park had the Robert Pinckin band, directed by Herbert Tamblyn, and they gave a program assisted by the H. J. Lindsay quartet. L. C. Evans of the band was well received when he played a piccolo and flute solo. Southern park's audiences were entertained by the Eighteenth Regiment band, directed by William H. Rogers.

Oakwood had a mixed program of special concert artists instead of a brass band. The Colonial Comedy Four headed the bill. William Smith, musical artist, and Edwin C. Kelly, whistling imitator, above entertainers. Master Earl Lindsay and Miss Clarice Templeton sang in the usual pleasing manner.

Minister's Appeal Met a Generous Response

The Rev. Thomas Parry, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Wilkinsburg, announced yesterday the election of his elders and afterward held up a silver dollar. He announced that he required 30 more toward relieving the distress of two Wilkinsburg families. Sixty-five silver dollars were placed in the collection plate as a result.

WANT TO REPEAL THE BROOKS LAW

Brewers Will Join Forces With the Wholesale and Retail Liquor Dealers.

BATTLE TO BE IN HARRISBURG

The Retail Liquor Dealers' Association of Allegheny County has succeeded in interesting the brewers in their campaign to be waged before the next legislature in an effort to have the Brooks liquor law modified. Smarting under the effects of the 15-day penalty inflicted upon their plants, which resume today, and the many penalties and refusals suffered by retail liquor applicants this year, the brewers, who have, it is said, lost several hundred thousand dollars by the action of the recent license court, will make issue with the retailers, both in spirit and cash, and lobby during the next session at Harrisburg to have curtailed some of the power now vested in the judges of the license courts. The movement is to be participated in by retail and wholesale liquor dealers throughout the state, as well as brewers, but Allegheny county is to be the center of the movement, and from here the campaign will be managed.

Delegates from the local breweries conferred with the retailers' association on Sunday, May 8, and again yesterday. Money will not be spared or efforts relaxed in the fight, and the confident hope of the liquor men is that the Brooks law will be repealed in its entirety, while any modification bearing on the right to penalize will be the aim of the campaigners.

President F. W. Mueller of the Pittsburgh Brewing Company, when asked as to the situation last night, said:

"Nothing definite has been done as yet, but there is still plenty of time before the next legislature convenes. Just what the plans are to be I do not know. I do know that such a movement is on foot, but it is hard to get the retailers together at present. For my own part, I am satisfied with the Brooks law, but there are many, I understand, who are greatly opposed to the law and the way it is enforced."

Breaking Into a Wedding.

John Fentich, aged 18, of Sawmill alley, Allegheny, was sent to jail for 20 days yesterday. He was arrested Saturday night for trying to break into the cellar of a house in which a wedding was in progress.

A Great Day for Economists

On the theory that good news gets from lip to lip with quickened speed we assume the readers of the daily papers are thoroughly conversant with the many good things on sale here today.

It is a fair assumption that our Saturday afternoon news relating to special Monday sales will hold its place in the majority of minds, and therefore, except in two notable instances, no repetition of our store news is given this morning.

We do not know when we have had ready a more engaging collection of wanted goods to sell for underprices. And, as true as it is that this is being written, we beg to say that in every instance where former prices were named, and where the worth of the goods was given, in both cases the statements were absolutely true. We'll only be too glad, when requested, to prove statements of worth.

Along this argument of worthy goods for sensational underprices we ask a re-reading of two paragraphs from Saturday's news:

25c a Yard for 65c Printed Liberty Satin.

Now the counterpart of these goods sold for 65c, but, in this instance, there were some 3,328 yards that here and there had a slight blemish, thus consigning the whole number of yards to be sacrificed. We were simply lucky in getting the lot. There isn't one woman out of twenty who could find the imperfection, and what imperfection there is amounts to nothing at all, probably a twisted thread that no one would ever notice.

They are this season's printings in single and cluster dot effects of white on grounds of different contrasting colors.

28c a Yard for $1.00 Imported Dress Linens.

These are imported novelty dress linens, and they were brought over to sell for $1.00 a yard. They are worth that amount.

The importer stands the loss.

We have just 1,920 yards, all we could get, and the designs are in rich color mixtures on stylish open mesh London twine grounds.

We are well aware that this linen news smacks of improbability, but all we ask you to do is to come and see the linens. If you are at all interested in dress linens you will at once recognize the value of this linen.

Monday, May 16, 1904.

Death claimed two Pittsburgh citizens on Saturday who were widely known for their good works. The Hon. Morrison Foster, the last surviving member of a family closely identified with the early progress of the community, was always active in public affairs and possessed of an unselfish civic spirit. Dr. John Milton Duff, famed for skill in his profession, was a man among men. His helpfulness to less fortunate humanity was the leading characteristic of his life, though his devotion to his profession alone made him a hero. Both will be missed, but there is consolation in the reflection that the good men do lives after them.

While the sale of the South Penn railroad right-of-way to Baltimore & Ohio interests does not mean the entrance of a new road or a competitive factor into the field, it probably does mean development and an important addition to transportation facilities. The route chosen by the South Penn promoters is short and of remarkably easy grades. It is much better than the old Baltimore & Ohio line. When the company shall have followed out the contemplated plan of constructing a road over the acquired right-of-way it will afford an easier road for Pittsburgh freight to the seaboard and one more rapid for passengers. This will be a great advantage in times of stress, such as prevailed from one to three years ago.

Gov. Pennypacker has followed the excellent example of President Roosevelt in urging his department chiefs and other officers of the state to cut short their annual reports. These public documents are too often so long drawn out that they fail of their purpose, which is to inform the public of the state of its affairs. In these times of high pressure practice and rapid accomplishment, men are too busy to pore over prolix statements, even though the subject matter be important. The need is for comprehensive brevity. That public official who can condense his report to the smallest number of words is surest of a full hearing. For this reason it is wise to have all public reports shortened, and as Gov. Pennypacker points out, it is also cheaper to the state. Both are good reasons for condensation.

We are assured again that a strong anti-Parker combination is working in the Democratic party. It is composed of dissimilar elements, including such radicals as Hearst and Bryan, with such a conservative as Senator Gorman. Hearst's role is to push his own candidacy—which he can be depended upon to do—while Gorman's business is to prevent the instruction of delegations, particularly in the south. Each of these gentlemen might be doing the work assigned to him without any formal combination or understanding, but in either case they will be kept busy to prevent Judge Parker from going to St. Louis with a majority of votes. Of the states soon to hold conventions, Georgia is conceded to Parker, and it is believed Senator Bailey will carry instructions for him in Texas. Altogether it is a tremendous struggle for empty honors. Whoever captures the Democratic nomination is doomed to be beaten at the polls.

Mississippi, which started the restriction of the suffrage which has spread over the south, is now putting into effect a new Nagracy law which is reported to be thoroughly efficient. The law requires that every person must show the possession of sufficient income to support him or else go to work, if physically able to do so. The sheriffs are charged with the execution of the law, and failure to enforce it is made a punishable offense. Surprising to relate, this particular product of southern legislation does not single out the negroes as its special mark. Negro tillers made a rush for employment when they learned of the law, as they realized that their only choice was between working on their own account or being landed in a convict camp, where they would have to work without wages. Most of the arrests for vagrancy have therefore been white men, but they, too, are succumbing to the new conditions and getting to work. It is thought that it will take only a month of the new law to rid Mississippi of all tramps and loafers. The success of the law has been such that a copy has been introduced in the Louisiana legislature and it is expected that it will be passed almost unanimously. In Mississippi, Louisiana and other states, suffrage restrictions introduced originally to strike down negro suffrage have had the practical result of general curtailment of the elective franchise, and political authority has passed into the hands of a select electorate, composed of the prudent and thrifty who pay their poll taxes and keep up their electoral qualifications. The stringent vagrancy law which has been passed is a result of the ascendency of this new electorate, and other effects of the change in political conditions will doubtless manifest themselves from time to time.

There is a prospect that the internal troubles of the American Red Cross may be forgotten, now that a new president has been elected. Mrs. John A. Logan is a very capable leader and a tactful woman. What may be done to heal the breach in the organization she may do, and it will be well, indeed, if the Red Cross shall again become thoroughly united for the noble work for which it was created. Miss Clara Barton, who resigned on Saturday as president, leaves her post with high honors. She devoted her life for years unselfishly to the Red Cross, braving perils and discomforts that the suffering might be succored. To her devotion and energy the American Red Cross owes the distinction it attained almost from the first. It is no time to discuss the merits of the controversy that marred the later years of her administration, but in her retirement even those who opposed her can join in giving to Miss Barton the credit that is her due.

The Bond Ordinances.

The two ordinances for bond issues now pending before city councils provide respectively for a five-million loan for pure water supply and a two-million loan for hump removal. The two propositions are altogether distinct and stand upon very different premises.

The subject of pure water supply has been under discussion since 1896, and the delay which has ensued has inflicted enormous suffering and loss upon the community. Pittsburgh never sustained a greater disaster than the failure to carry through promptly and thoroughly the recommendations of the original filtration commission. Nothing but increased expense, disease and loss of life have resulted from the subsequent delays and investigations. Delay now will have no other result. The amount asked, while large, is none too large for a city like Pittsburgh to expend upon such an object. It is based upon estimates which have been revised and examined until they are no longer open to any reasonable objection sufficient to warrant further delay. Under Judge Buffington's decision in the case which stopped proceedings under the old estimates, it is not competent for the city to award any contracts until a sum sufficient to complete the whole work is available, so that it would be dangerous to take any risk in providing funds. The expenditure of the proceeds of the bond issue will be subject to the supervision of councils, and the amount is none too large to have on hand for contingencies. A costly mistake was made by not at once providing the entire sum estimated by the original filtration commission. Do not let us make such another mistake.

It should be remembered that debt contracted for purposes of water supply is really a productive investment. The water rents exceed in value the interest upon the plant and the cost of running expenses. A large portion of the proposed loan is for the purpose of extending city water to the South Side. This will at once develop a source of revenue which will make the transaction a very profitable one from the merely business point of view, to say nothing of the gain to the public welfare through an ample supply of pure water. No proposition was ever submitted to city councils which has so much to commend it as the proposed water loan, and it should receive an unanimous vote in its favor.

The two-million loan for hump removal stands in an entirely different position. No one knows whether that amount will really cover the cost or not. No detailed estimates have been made, and while there has been much talk of waiver of damages by property owners, no complete list has ever been furnished. So far it is all a matter of assertion, conjecture and vague promises. No statement has yet been submitted upon which any bond issue can properly be based. Under the decision made by Judge Buffington in the case of the old filtration contracts, no contract can be let until complete estimates are made and the cost of the entire improvement is provided for. It is the plain duty of councils to postpone further consideration of the hump removal bond issue until it is known just what obligations the city will incur, and until detailed estimates are made of the cost of the improvement. The matter is not yet in shape for submission to the vote of the people.

Russian Troubles Multiply.

Official denial is made of the rumor that the Japanese had taken Port Arthur. The report probably originated in the occupation of Dalny, which was effected by a combined land and sea attack. The Russians had anticipated this, as is shown by the destruction of their expensive wharves by themselves last week. It is stated on good authority, however, that the Japanese landings on the peninsula now aggregate 50,000 men, so the siege of Port Arthur will probably begin at once. Russian advices report an attack at Port Adams, indicating a simultaneous movement on both sides of the railroad. The Japanese have shown their ability to accomplish what the Russians have considered impossibilities, and it will not be surprising if they carry Port Arthur in the near future. The Gazette pointed out more than a month ago that Port Arthur was the prime Japanese objective and the movements afield that indicated the purpose to carry it by storm with as little delay as possible.

In order to maintain the absolute certainty of control of the sea, it will also be necessary for the Japanese to secure, or to bottle up, Vladivostok until the approach of cold weather. Russia evidently anticipates some movement in that direction, as apprehension has been clearly shown in dispatches from that point and from Possiet bay. Meantime there is expectation of a frontal and flanking attack at Liao-Yang and extreme nervousness over a reported rising of the Chinese nearly 200 miles north. The Chinese government repeats its assurances of strict neutrality, but it is obvious the government at Pekin can have no control over its subjects in the interior of Manchuria, which is under Russian control. In fact, it is warned by Russia against permitting any imperial troops to advance beyond the great wall.

The danger to Russia from an uprising in Manchuria is, of course, the interruption of railway and telegraph communications. The line of communication is the Russian weak point. It is absolutely necessary to keep that open. Every threat of the Manchurians, therefore, is an admonition to increase the railway guard, which implies a weakening of the defensive forces facing the agile and determined Japanese. These things were long ago apparent to all save the Russian authorities. They either felt or pretended such an utter contempt for the Chinese even after the opening of hostilities that the declaration was made that China was not considered as a factor in the situation. That attitude has been abandoned, probably as a result of the demonstration that Japan is a far more worthy foe than Russia had been able to believe.

South Side Water Plants.

It is said City Solicitor Rodgers has expressed the opinion that the city of Pittsburgh is under no obligation to purchase the plant of the Monongahela Water Company; that it may install a plant of its own for the distribution of water to the South Side. Mr. Rodgers is a competent authority and his opinions carry weight. He will probably be asked by councils to submit a written opinion covering the points.

A careful reading of the ordinance of 1885, drawn by David D. Bruce, indicates that the city forfeited by that contract no right it possessed prior to the enactment of the ordinance, unless the forfeiture be contained in the following provision: "At the end of said term of 21 years a board of appraisers shall be appointed in the manner provided for in the charter of said company, and the said city shall have the right to purchase the said Monongahela water works at the appraised value thereof, subject to deduction for any credits in the sinking funds of said company," etc. That clause in a sense recognizes the right of the company to dispose of its property to the municipality before the latter acquires any rights in the premises. However, the question really recurs to the controversy of 20 years ago, when the city contended it had the right to lay mains on the South Side and the company contended it had not. The ordinance cited was adopted as a compromise at that time, as much because the city did not have funds available for the purchase or construction of a plant as because there was prevalent belief that the company had an exclusive franchise.

If it shall prove that the city has a legal right to install a distribution plant of its own on the South Side it will be the part of wisdom to do so. The old plant is not as good as when new and the population has outgrown its capacity, at least in some sections. Moreover, there is a building movement started on that side of the river that will make greater demands, both for service and adequate fire protection, than the old mains can meet.

Our Mr. Schlotterbeck has been asked to manage the tour of the Metropolitan Opera Company next year. Is this intended as the olive branch to the French singers who declared Mr. Conried's forces were too strongly German during the season just ended?

Senator Gorman is alleged to have entered an unholy alliance with Tammany to defeat Judge Parker. There are two reasons why the judge should be nominated—Tammany and Gorman.

Come, be honest, Lovely May!
While we our strong devotions pay
Your coolness cuts us to the heart;
Pray, warm up, or let us part.

A family of Slavs in Homestead reports seeing hundreds of children flying though the air. Evidently the stork is making his headquarters in that neighborhood.

The cruiser New Orleans was probably sent to Chefoo so the sailors can learn to pronounce the names of the battlefields and come back and tell the rest of us.

The Pittsburgher who projects a trip to the St. Louis Fair "on canvas and hot air" will discover that he needs something more than hot air after he arrives.

Talked of in Gotham

By GEORGE C. JENKS.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, May 17.—District Attorney Jerome will tomorrow resume his attack on the gambling industry in New York before Justice Wyatt. When court opens the district attorney and several witnesses will be there to take part in certain "John Doe" proceedings instituted by Mr. Jerome, which are understood to be aimed at Richard Canfield, the alleged keeper of the most aristocratic gambling house ever in this city. Canfield called it his private residence. The principal feature of Monday's proceedings will be the appearance of Jesse Lewisohn, the wealthy Wall street man, who refused to testify in connection with Canfield's business a year ago, and for whose benefit, and that of other important friends of Canfield, Jerome got a bill passed by the legislature compelling witnesses to testify under pain of being committed for contempt of court. Whether Lewisohn will tell what he knows tomorrow, if questioned, remains to be seen. Alfred Lauterbach, his counsel, cautiously declares that it will depend somewhat on Monday's developments. As for the district attorney, he does not beat about the bush as to his intentions. He says that he would hardly have taken the trouble to get his bill through the legislature unless he had intended to make some use of it. If Lewisohn should refuse to testify, there will be a battle royal between him and the district attorney, with the constitution as referee. It is understood that Lewisohn may stand on the ground that the new law is unconstitutional, and that it would be an infringement of his personal rights if he were compelled to tell all he knows about the Canfield establishment. Reginald Vanderbilt wisely keeps beyond the jurisdiction of the court, at Newport.

Little Josie Buried.

Many sad funerals take place on the East Side, especially on a Sunday. It is some time since a more pathetic procession has been seen than that which left an undertaking shop this afternoon, with the body of little Josephine McCahill, who was suffocated in a chimney, and whose body was not found until ten days after the accident. There was an immense assemblage of watchers as the small casket was brought forth and placed in the white hearse, and exclamations of sympathy were perhaps deeper and more numerous than usual. The horror of it all was evidently appreciated by the hundreds of parents who saw the procession start, for of course they were thinking of their own children, many of whom would be just as likely to get into dangerous mischief as was poor little Josie.

No Change in "Jimmy" Blaine.

When James G. Blaine took his seat in the witness chair in the supreme court on Friday, to testify in his suit to recover nearly $3,000 from his former stock brokers, there was not much difference in his appearance from what it was when he did reportorial work on one of the Pittsburgh papers, some 18 years ago. He is still the boyish, big-boned, athletic young man that he was in the old days. His eyes are clear, his skin healthy looking, and his manner full of the assurance which never failed him in his Pittsburgh period of news gathering. The likeness between him and his distinguished father is as marked as ever it was, although there is less of the suave, logically convincing manner in the young man that was characteristic of his father. James G. Blaine, the statesman, was famous for the "magnetism" of his oratory and personality. James G. Blaine, the son, depends on his aggressiveness to carry his point. And he generally does it, somehow.

Gum for "Trolley Nerves."

When you get tired of "chewing the rag" over the delays of the Brooklyn trolley cars, you can now amuse yourself by chewing gum. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit company has installed slot machines containing assorted gum on the Fifth avenue line of surface cars. There are two machines in each car. When the situation become unbearable during a block or breakdown, you can drop in a penny and get a slab of pepsin, peppermint or other flavored gum, and contest yourself. The conductor will give you pennies in change for your nickel or dime. Trolley-traveling in Brooklyn is so wearing on the nerves that easy access to chewing-gum is a most merciful provision.

Boys Worth More Than Girls.

It is interesting to know that a boy is worth twice as much in law as a girl. This has been settled by a judge in a Newark (N. J.) court. It was in connection with the fatality at a railroad crossing more than a year ago that a judge made this decision. He ruled that the father of a boy who was killed was entitled to $6,000, while the father of a girl should not receive more than $5,000. This estimate of the relative value of a boy's and girl's life was based on the supposed earning capacity of the boy, which presumably would be twice that of a girl. His honor summed up epigrammatically: "A woman may become a bread-winner, but a man must be one." Was it not a New Jersey judge who once said that the life of a child was not worth more than a dollar?

Real Irish Drama At Last.

The first truly Irish drama ever produced in this country is to be given in a hall in the Tenderloin district next Saturday. Its title is, "Ar Son Chait a Chead Ghradh" (For the Sake of Kate, his First Love). It was written by Andrew J. O'Boyle. As an enthusiastic Irishman remarked last night, "The lines are written in the Gaelic language, and the entire atmosphere will appeal to those who were born and bred in the Emerald Isle or trace their ancestry there."

To Philadelphia by Trolley.

Trolley service from Jersey City to Trenton has been opened. You can take a boat at Trenton for Philadelphia, if you like, or you can make the whole trip to the latter city by trolley.

Made the Ladies Mad.

Thomas Scott, a prominent New Yorker, has the courage of his convictions. He was invited by the Brooklyn Health Protective association to talk to them about health and the best way to preserve it, and he accepted amiably. What was the astonishment of the good ladies of the association when Mr. Scott, ignoring sewerage, sanitation, filtration, ash barrels, and similar dashing topics, swung off into the life led by society people, and deliberately blamed women for the acknowledged increase in disease. He said it was due to late hours, theater suppers, the race course and similar amusements, and that it was all the fault of the women. Mr. Scott will not address the association again in a hurry. He is down and out so far as its feminine members are concerned.

The Automobile Finds a Friend.

The automobile is dangerous, no doubt, but in the Evening Post of yesterday, on the first page, three different accidents due to runaway horses, were described. There were a number of accidents from the same cause Sunday. Before condemning the automobile as dangerous, let us consider the danger from the animal it is displacing.—Louisville Post.

The Quiet Observer

By ERASMUS WILSON.

There was a poor old woman once, a daughter of our nation,
Before the devil's portrait stood in ignorant adoration.
"You're bowing down to satan, ma'am," said some spectator, civil;
"Ah, sir, it's best to be polite, for we may go to the devil."
Bow, bow, bow.
We may go to the devil, so it's just as well to bow.

—Gerald Massey.

To whom do you bow?
Or, do you bow to anyone, or to anything?
Maybe you think you don't have to bow, being the equal of anything on earth.
And yet you have, no doubt, often felt like asking help from someone, or something, or somewhere.
And, in all probability you have cried out loudly and pleadingly for assistance, or support, when your load of responsibility was crushing you down—cried out not in lusty vocal tones, but in heart and feeling.
This was true prayer; a kind of prayer that is heard and that brings an answer.
It is what you feel that you need and most earnestly desire that interests the powers above, and not the carefully worded and beautifully spoken petition, as many seem to believe.
Prayer is merely a petition, the asking for that which we earnestly desire, and not a command or order to be obeyed by any superior, much less by the One Superior.

* * * *

There are many, like the poor old woman, adoring the portrait of Napoleon Bonaparte, whom the poet wrote down as the devil, who make it a point to keep on the good side of his satanic majesty, lest they be driven to his place as a last resort after having heard the dreadful sentence: "Depart, I never knew you."
And how these will strain to scrape up an acquaintance with his majesty of the nether kingdom, and how great their disappointment when he fails to remember their faces and their evil deeds, and bids them be gone and make themselves at home in his homeless domains.
Hell, as you know, is the opposite, the very antithesis, of heaven.
Therefore, no matter what may be your ideal heaven, hell will be its opposite. The greater the pleasure you associate with existence in heaven, the greater the misery of hell.
You need only ask yourself the vexed question: What is hell? If you know what heaven is, you know what hell is; or if you only have a vague idea or an indefinite impression as to what heaven ought to be, then you may have an equally clear idea and an equally definite impression as to what hell is or may be.
Having the opportunity to gain heaven, and being urged and entreated to accept it as your eternal home, you cannot charge unfairness, nor any sort of injustice, if you are banished to the state or condition which you choose of your own free will, and against the advice and pleadings of all that is good and true and lovable.

* * * *

Dear Quiet Observer: If every person gets as much pleasure as I do in reading your column, they certainly get a heart's full, for which they must often breathe forth a fervent "Thank you," to which I say, "Amen."
Now, that sounds like a prayer, doesn't it? Well, it was prayer, or, rather, a letter concerning prayer, from one of your correspondents that pompted me to write, and, if possible, enlighten him a little in regard to prayer.
He says: "I found it no use to pray for aid when I was in trouble, nor to pray that the life of my child be spared, or that my health be restored so that I could work for my family."
In order that our prayers may be heard there are some things necessary on our part. They are confidence in God's goodness, humility, resignation to His will, and perseverance.
First of all, in praying one must have a firm belief in God's goodness and fully confident that He will grant what we ask, provided it is not detrimental to our spiritual welfare. With humility, remembering that we are only the creature, He the creator, and not to pray as though we were doing a service to our Father instead of asking His help. Remember the prayer of the Publican and Pharisee.
That which may seem to us just the thing we need may be the instrument by which we would be led into the broad path. We should, therefore, always say, "But Thy will, not mine, be done."
If our prayers are not answered immediately we must not cease praying. We must continue to pray at all times and under all conditions. Prayer is the key of heaven, and the only means by which we can unlock the graces and treasures which are in store for us if we ask aright.
Then he says: "They tell me I have no faith. I had great faith when I began."
Ah, there it is! He thought he had, but the very fact that his faith in God's goodness was so easily crushed proves that he only had a very thin coating. Then he adds: "I notice none are clothed and fed unless they work and pay for it."
Well, I guess not. Work is the first law of nature. Christ, the Son of God, was one of the greatest of workers, and instead of expecting to be clothed and fed without working we should thank God daily for the strength and ability to work.
And lastly: Our lives are not what they ought to be, perhaps, when we pray, and in order to change our manner of living God sends afflictions, such as the loss of a child, or health, that we may be directed into the right channels.
If our friend, instead of ceasing to pray, would pray with confidence in God's goodness, humility, resignation to God's will and perseverance, he would, I think, receive many spiritual consolations and live to thank God that many of his prayers were not heard.

MARGARET.

Would you pray God to suspend any clause or part of the great law of nature?
If you are a sensible and half reasonable creature you know this would not only be folly, but it would be sacrilegious.
What would you think of one who would pray to God to save him from suffering and from death and then walk into the midst of a blazing fire, or plunge into a raging torrent, or venture into a house reeking with smallpox poison?
You would naturally think such a one a fool, in which conclusion you would have the support of all sensible people.
The fact of the matter is that man is so small, as compared with the universe of God, all of which is controlled by the same laws, that none of these could be suspended, not even for an instant, without causing far more harm than all the good it could possibly do.
Nor would you ask your Father for that which was not coming to you, much less for that which He could not give. You might ask, and with perfect propriety: If it be Thy will let it be so, but Thy will, not mine.
If your child is fatally afflicted you should know that some great law of life has been violated, not that God has sent death to chasten you, although the fatal weakness may have been inherited from you, and due to your wickedness or folly.
God sends evil to none. That is the one thing He cannot do, for He is all goodness and has no part or lot in that which is evil.
Where we neglect to do good, to do right, therein is the evil. It is our very own.
Take the Lord's prayer as your model: study its scope, pray accordingly, remembering the prayer in Gethsemane: "If it be Thy will, let this cup pass, but Thy will, not mine, be done."

Japan's Only "Yellow Streak."

The "strategy boards" of the various clubs and sewing circles seem to be somewhat at sea just now about the next move to be made by the Japanese. It is real mean of the Japs to keep such a close mouth about their movements. Now during the Spanish war these gentlemen blest with military insight had no difficulty whatever in moving the ships and armies of both sides and telling just what the results would be.—Indianapolis Journal.

Our Alien Friends

THE STROLLER.

"Why do all, or most of, the foreigners with small business places have their signs painted in yellow?" inquired an observant citizen.
"You can search me," replied the Stroller. "I am pretty well acquainted with the the fact that the Chinaman, the Italian, the Greek and the other chaps from abroad have a penchant for some shade of yellow when it comes to business signs, but I never inquired why. It may be that yellow paint is cheaper than other colors, but I, never having been a sign writer, don't know even that much. I always thought the Chinaman used yellow to match his complexion, but a walk down Fourth avenue convinced me that there must be some other reason, for the other foreigners would have skipped it. For my part, I am partial to red, but as I only use nose-paint in my line, and have no use for any particular sign, I guess I am no judge."
Have you ever noticed how a colony of foreigners can take possession of any locality they may set their minds on? Take the lower end of Fourth avenue, for instance. A year ago a Greek opened a pool and billiard room between Market and Ferry streets. The upper part of the building he used for a boarding house for his countrymen. Today there are a half-dozen Greek restaurants and boarding houses in the locality, and two reasonably good restaurants who depended upon general patronage are closed. One trouble the average American finds in competing with these people is that they can beat him on paying big rents. They herd together so closely that the rent is made very small for each member of the colony, whereas the American would find it impossible to pay it and make both ends meet. And that sort of thing holds good in every section of Pittsburgh where the foreign population congregates, and what is true of Pittsburgh is true of almost every other large American city.

Romance of a Greek.

One of the quiet little sons of Greece who opened out on Fourth avenue a year ago has a romantic soul. At least he felt the pangs of love soon after his arrival in the neighborhood, and they are still with him, the pangs of unrequited affection. Across the way was a restaurant with a bevy of comely girl waiters. The head waitress was a little Irish girl who answered her patrons when they called "Nellie." Of a bright and sunny nature, and always smiling, it is not surprising that the lonely Greek across the street should fall a victim. With none but men around him, he thirsted for a little of the society of women, and to him Nellie was the embodiment of all that is good and beautiful. One day a patron of the restaurant was in the pool room.
"Do you know the little girl across the street?" inquired the Greek.
"There are several little girls across the street, and some not so little," was the reply; "which little girl do you mean?"
"The one standing at the window now," said the lover, glancing furtively at his adored one.
"Oh, that's Nellie. Nice girl," said the gentleman.
"Mighty fine girl," returned the Greek. "Like her very much. Will you take this rose to her and tell her I sent it?"
The gentleman was not loath to act as mediary, and he took a rose of gorgeous red over the way and presented it to Nellie with the compliments of her adorer. Girl-like, Nellie turned up her nose—but she wore the rose in her hair, and conspicuously paraded before the big windows of the restaurant, while the lonely Greek over the way watched her in an ecstasy of delight.
But the march of the Greeks was too much for the restaurant. In a short while it closed, and Nellie went to pastures new. A few days ago I happened to visit a restaurant where the sunny-faced Nellie is employed, and I asked her about her Greek lover.
"Oh, I saw him the other day. 'Come around and see me,' he said, 'I'm running a candy store now.'" And Nellie tossed her head and laughed at the heart burnings of the sighing Greek.

The Latest in Purses.

On the Penn avenue car line the other day, I saw something that caused me to believe that the Chinaman has an idea once in awhile, at least. Across the car sat one of Pittsburgh's celestial residents. He was carting home a big basket of laundry. When the conductor came along for the fares, John made a quick movement toward the side of his head and promptly produced a nickel. I never could let a mystery get away from me without trying to solve it, so I crossed over to the vacant seat beside the Chinaman. I was on his right side, and, after a thorough inspection, I discovered a nickel snugly ensconced in his ear. I got up and walked out to the rear of the car, and glancing back discovered that there was no nickel in the left ear. Ergo, he had paid his fare from his left side deposit. One always goes to the car conductor for enlightenment, and I got it.
"It's the regular thing nowadays," said the conductor. "I carry a dozen Chinamen every day, and invariably their fare comes from the ear. You see, Chinamen are afraid of being robbed of their money, so they leave all but car fare hidden at home. With a nickel in each ear, they have money enough to carry them on their journey and to bring them back. If they were going to Allegheny and back, they would be stumped, I suppose, or else would carry a dime in each ear. But I am afraid a dime wouldn't fit the average Chinaman's ear. It is made for carrying nickels only."

The Backbone of a Pennypacker.

That interesting member of the Pennypacker family who presides over the borough of West Chester makes an exemplary display of official firmness in his veto of an ordinance giving a telegraph company an unlimited right to erect poles and wires in the highways of the town. "You give away," he says to the borough councilmen, "all the streets and alleys in West Chester for the use, occupation and control of a corporation forever, without any adequate compensation and without any restriction that has any binding force." This is what the councilmen of Philadelphia have been doing for years, until the corporations own the streets and use them as they please, with no one to hinder them. It would have been worth incalculable millions to Philadelphia to have a mayor with the integrity and backbone of Burgess Pennypacker.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Still Able to Chill Them.

A statesman named Smith, presiding over the Democratic state convention in Indiana, declared that the expenditures under the Roosevelt administration were so enormous as to "chill the imagination." So long as we can "chill the imaginations" of our statesmen the country is reasonably safe.—New York Tribune.

May "Show Them" Something.

There were 227,646 Republican votes in Missouri in 1892, 304,940 in 1896 and 314,022 in 1900. The Democratic vote was 11,000 smaller in 1900 than in 1896. That is a pretty big straw, and the figures are official.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Death Roll

Alexander Frew.

Alexander Frew, a retired bolt and nut manufacturer, died yesterday afternoon at his home in Prospect street, Ingram. His death was the result of a stroke of paralysis, received in December, 1902. Mr. Frew was born in Pittsburgh and lived in the city and vicinity all his life. In early life he learned the machinist's trade and later engaged in the manufacturing business. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. F. C. Eaton, of Beaver, Pa. One sister and one brother, Sarah Jane and Robert Frew, of Ingram, also survive. Funeral services will be held at his home tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. He will be buried in the Allegheny cemetery.

James H. Bowles.

James Hamilton Bowles, who belonged to one of the most influential families of Western Maryland, is dead at Cumberland, Md. from Bright's disease, aged 54. His home was at Hancock. He was a son of the late Maj. John J. Bowles, who was a conspicuous Union man during the civil war. Only six months ago, Mr. Bowles married Miss Annie Cover of Thurmont, Md. Dr. Harry Bowles, who until recently conducted an antique store at Pittsburgh, is a surviving brother. Mr. Bowles was a prominent Republican worker.

Mrs. Mary Ann Harrison.

Mrs. Mary Ann Harrison, widow of John Harrison, died suddenly of heart failure yesterday evening at her home, 1843 Linton street, Pittsburgh, aged 70 years. Mrs. Harrison had lived in the Eleventh ward for almost 30 years, and was long identified with the Fifth United Presbyterian church and later with the Third church. She is survived by her only son, James Harrison, of the Pennsylvania railroad; a sister, Mrs. Katherine Harrison, and a brother, John McCormick. Funeral services will be held on Wednesday, at 2 p. m.

A. P. Tallman.

A. P. Tallman, aged 60, died yesterday morning at Bellaire, O., after a short illness from pneumonia. He had been a director and cashier of the First National bank of that city since it was founded, in 1870. He leaves a wife and one daughter.

Obituary Notes.

John Loeffler, aged 63, died Saturday evening at his residence, 153 Pearl street, after an illnes of several months. He resided in Pittsburgh all his life. He is survived by his widow and the following sons and daughters: Jean B. Loeffler, George O. Loeffler, Mrs. Frederick J. Weckerele, of El Paso, Tex.; and Misses Jessie M. and Olive U. Loeffler.

PERSONALS

"It's a wise man who knows what kind of wine he's drinking," said H. L. Goldberg, representative of a California vineyard company, yesterday at the Colonial. "There isn't a first-class hotel in New York that has a California wine on its menu or wine list, but just the same we alone sell them thousands of dollars' worth of stuff every year. What becomes of it? Well, you don't suppose the proprietors and chefs drink it, do you? What they do is to put fake labels on the bottles and sell California wine for the imported article. It's done every day, and the public doesn't know the difference. Take a hochheimer, niersteiner, laubenheimer, or any white dry wine, for instance. Anybody can get a label with a foreign appearance about it with these names on them and fill the bottle with California wine. I don't deny it's just as good, and it's strange the hotel and restaurant people have to resort to deception. If a California company wanted to misrepresent their brand it would be very easy, but we label the brand from this particular grape, say 'Willow Crest,' or some American sounding name instead of hochheimer.
"The government is deeply interested in the California vineyards. I have been notified that the agricultural department has just leased one of our vineyards for ten years for experimental purposes."

"If Pittsburgh had a Coney Island," said J. P. Kleman, of the East End, who returned yesterday from New York, where he has been for a week, "it wouldn't be long before we'd have to widen all of our streets and increase the size of the city directory. A week ago 108,000 visitors 'dropped' over to the island for a quiet nap. At one of the German beer houses—you could hardly call it a garden—I saw 3,000 men and women. Pretty soon some boisterous fellow began, 'It Was the Dutch,' and everybody joined in. Some beat time with their arms and others waved wienerwurst sandwiches."

Secretary Andrews Gives List of Those Going to Republican National Convention.

ONE DISTRICT NOT SUPPLIED

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Press Building,
PHILADELPHIA, PA., May 15.

Col Wesley R. Andrews, secretary of the Republican state committee, has just completed a list of the delegates and alternates elected to the Republican national convention from Pennsylvania. In all but one of the congressional districts, the Tenth, which embraces Lackawanna county, the district delegates and alternates have been chosen. Following is a list of the delegates and alternates to the Republican national convention, as certified to Col. Andrews:

Delegates-at-Large — Samuel W. Pennypacker, Harrisburg; James Elverson, Philadelphia; Francis L. Robbins, Pittsburgh; O. D. Bleakley, Franklin.

Alternates-at-Large—O. S. Hershman, Pittsburgh; D. H. Thomas, Hokendaqua; Jesse L. Hartman, Hollidaysburg; Samuel B. Dick, Meadville.

District delegates and alternates:

Philadelphia—District delegates:

First—Israel W. Durham, Henry H. Bingham.

Second—Boies Penrose, David H. Lane.

Third—John C. Bell, David Martin.

Fourth—John Weaver, A. Lincoln Acker.

Fifth—John M. Mack, H. B. Hackett.

Sixth—A. S. L. Shields, Frank H. Caven.

Alternates:

First—G. W. A. Vare, William T. Milligan.

Second—James L. Miles, John K. Myers.

Third—Joseph H. Klemmer, Samuel G. Maloney.

Fourth—George Storr, Jr., Peter E. Smith.

Fifth—Peter E. Costello, John B. Lukens.

Sixth—E. W. Patton, Joseph M. Adams.

Seventh—Delaware and Chester. William L. Mathues, P. J. Lynch; alternates, Fred T. Chandler, Richard Darlington.

Eighth—Bucks and Montgomery, Jonas S. Harley, J. Elwood Lee; alternates, John T. Fish, Israel H. Supplee.

Ninth—Lancaster, W. W. Griest, J. Gust. Zook; alternates, John F. Mentzer, H. S. Stauffer.

Tenth—Lackawanna, to be elected.

Eleventh—Luzerne, H. W. Almar, A. C. Leisenring; alternates, W. S. Tomkins, L. N. Hammerling.

Twelfth—Schuylkill, George R. Patterson, Heister S. Albright; alternates, David R. Jones, August Knecht.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON BY THE REV. W. I. WISHART

Graduates of Allegheny Theological Seminary Listen to Strong Address in First Church.

The Rev. William I. Wishart, pastor of the Eighth United Presbyterian church of Allegheny, last night delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the class of 1904 of the Allegheny Theological seminary in the First United Presbyterian church. The 24 members of the graduating class occupied front pews. The Rev. Mr. Wishart talked on "Things Which Belie Sound Doctrine," and said in part:

My message tonight is simply to say that in very large measure the intellectual and moral conditions described in the pastoral epistles obtain today, and that the Christian worker can meet these and change them only by faithfully, persistently and patiently proclaiming sound and healthful teachings. This has been characterized as an age of doubt. The spirit of inquiry is in the air. There is a disposition to question the most fundamental facts and to set an interrogation point over and against the most thoroughly confirmed religious formulae.

The struggle of the church for many years has been rather in behalf of the refinements of the doctrine; it looks as though the ministry of the future would have to struggle to maintain the fundamentals. The spirit of inquiry, characteristic of the age, thrusts its way, like some ruthless Pompey, into our most sacred places, and among the things most firmly believed among us. Present conditions are to be met successfully by preaching. The conditions of this day are not to be remedied by the adoption of any single-tax theory of the Henry George variety, nor by any of the socialistic or sociological schemes which are being exploited as certain to heal society's hurt and to right the wrongs of mankind. We are not to spend our time in writing scientific essays. The need of our day is preachers and preaching. Preach the strong vital doctrines of Christianity. The need of the day is to hold up persistently, patiently, and lovingly those great truths most clearly revealed to us, and most firmly believed among us.

With scientific fact earnestness and with unwearying persistence, and with a love like the love of Christ in your hearts preach the strong, vital, essential doctrines of the Christian faith, by such a ministry you will make your lives a benediction and will make the world the better for having lived in it.

CAUGHT IN FLY-WHEEL.

Allegheny Girl Terribly Injured in Pittsburgh Railways Co.'s Power House.

Dorsey Welsh, an 8-year-old girl living at 1704 Juniata street, Allegheny, was terribly injured last night by being caught in a revolving wheel and a belt in the Pittsburgh Railways Company power house, at the foot of Juniata street.

The child, with several companions, entered the building and, just as an employe at the place was approaching to order them out the Welsh girl's clothes were caught. She was whirled about once and thrown violently against a wall. Her left arm was almost torn from the socket and her right hand terribly crushed. At the Allegheny General hospital it was necessary to amputate all the fingers of the right hand. The girl is in a critical condition.

POPE WILL PUBLISH THE GREGORIAN CHANTS

Pronunciamento Removes All Doubt of His Intention to Enforce Their Use.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 15.—Any doubts that might have lingered as to the pope's intention to insist on the enforcement of his reforms in Catholic church music have been set at rest by the receipt here today of a new pronunciamento on the subject, which is dated April 25. In it he announces that he is preparing an official edition of the music that must be used hereafter in the solemn ceremonies of the church.

"By our motu peoplus of November 22, 1903," says the decree, "and by the subsequent decree published at our order by the congregation of sacred rites on January 8, 1904, we restored to the Roman Catholic church its ancient Gregorian chant, that chant which it has inherited from the fathers, which it has jealously guarded in its liturgical codicies and which the most recent studies have very happily brought back to its primitive purity. But in order to complete as is fitting the work that has been begun and to furnish to our Roman church and to all the churches of the same rite the common text of the liturgical Gregorian melodies, we have decreed to undertake with the type of our vatican printing office the publication of the liturgical books containing the chant of the holy Roman church restored to us."

In the editing of the new book of chant the pope says he prefers the system of the French Benedictine monks of the Abbey of Solesme, and therefore he gives them charge of the work.

SPENT PLEASANT SUNDAY IN METROPOLIS OF STATE

President's Wife and Daughter Passed Yesterday With Philadelphia Friends.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, who is visiting her cousin, Mrs. John F. Brock, in this city for a few days, spent a quiet Sunday in the forenoon, accompanied by Mrs. Brock, she attended services at St. Luke's Epiphany Protestant Episcopal church.

Miss Alice Roosevelt, who, with Countess Margherita Cassini, participated in the annual coaching parade yesterday, had a rather active day. Last night she was a guest at the town residence of Congressman Edward DeV. Morrell. Early in the day she took a drive and breakfasted at the home of John G. Johnson, the lawyer.

Later Miss Roosevelt was taken on board the city fireboat Ashbridge for a sightseeing trip on the Delaware river. The afternoon was spent at Mr. Morrell's country seat, where luncheon was served. A short stay was made at the country home of Clarence Dolan, nearby, where tea was had, after which the president's daughter returned to Washington.

Major Samuel Hazlett Dead.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Word reached here this afternoon of the death at Bangor, Me., of Maj. Samuel Hazlett, formerly a prominent banker of Washington. His death was due to a paralytic stroke received several months ago. He was 67 years old.

In 1862 he married Miss Lucy Woodhull of Bangor. She survives him, as do the following children: Charles R., who lives in the west; Samuel, a broker of Pittsburgh; and Miss Nellie.

Another Georgia Negro Lynching.

APPLING, GA., May 15.—A crowd of about 100 unmasked men forcibly entered the county jail here about midnight last night, took out John Cumming, a negro, who was waiting trial on the charge of attacking a 15-year-old girl, and hanged him to a tree near the public road about half a mile from Appling. His body was afterward riddled with bird shot and bullets.

COLORED KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS GATHER AT SCOTTDALE

SCOTTDALE, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The annual conclave of the Colored Knights of Pythias of Westmoreland and Fayette counties was held here today. The business session was held in Louck's hall, delegates being present from Uniontown, Connellsville, Mt. Pleasant and other towns in the two counties. In the afternoon the annual sermon was delivered in the African Methodist Episcopal church by the Rev. Mr. Snow of Uniontown.

THE PRISONER

Who escapes from jail is by no means free. He is under the ban of the law and punishment is written over against his name. Soon or late he will be caught again and bear added punishment for his short escape from his cell.

Those who by the use of palliative powders and tablets escape for a time from the sufferings of dyspepsia are in the same condition as the escaped prisoner. Soon or late they will go back to the old condition and pay an added penalty for temporary release.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. Its cures are lasting.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach for a long time; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep or follow my occupation (tinsmith). Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

M. E. DELEGATES GLAD TO REST

ACTION WILL BE RATIFIED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Today was welcomed by the delegates to the Methodist general conference as a day of rest after a week of continuous sessions. While enough visiting bishops and ministers volunteered their services to the pulpit supply committee to fill every pulpit in the city and suburban towns at both morning and evening services, the great body of delegates rested and talked over the events of yesterday's session of the conference.

The proceedings at yesterday's session of the general conference, when a vote was taken upon the retirement of five bishops, furnished a live topic of discussion among the delegates today. The general opinion of the delegates is that when the report is given tomorrow morning it will show a decided majority in favor of the report of the episcopacy committee recommending the retirement of Bishops Vincent, Walden, Andrews, Mallalieu and Foss. The prompt and determined manner in which the subject was put through the conference yesterday in the face of strong efforts to postpone definite action until Monday was much commented upon.

It is quite unlikely that the election of eight, and possibly more, bishops will take place during the present week. The day has not been decided upon, but it is generally believed that it will be Wednesday or Thursday.

Other matters that will come before the conference this week are: Action of the Methodist church upon divorce; consolidation of the various branches of the book concern; limiting the tenure of pastorates; placing the church on record in the matter of amusements, viz.—dancing, card-playing, theater-going, etc., and many other matters that have been brought up in memorials from different conferences. The number of candidates for bishop grows daily and no less than 35 names are now mentioned in this connection.

WISDOM FROM A FALL.

It is not safe to bet that what was always will be. Today a man of 70 fell into one of the million holes which recent underground enterprise has made in the pavements of New York, and he broke his collarbone. When he was hauled out the first thing he said was: "Doggone my luck, anyway! One of those accident insurance fellows called at the office yesterday and I laughed at him. I said that I had lived 70 years without an accident, and I guessed I could get along for the few years left me without a policy. Now I'm laid up for six months at least."

How different would he have felt had he the proper protection? You can be protected for 3½ cents a day, payable monthly. For particulars write

HARRY W. WILLIAMS' ACADEMY — Mat. 2—ALL THIS WEEK—Eve. 8 — WATSON'S AMERICANS

B. & B.

Never have we devoted more attention and effort to assortments than this Spring.

Never have we succeeded better, if as well.

Been a backward season—rarely if ever equaled.

Been a great season to buy Dry Goods under price, and we bought lots that way.

But quality and style are first consideration before we buy—and then price.

Following are examples of fine Wash Goods.

20,000 yards fine American 12½ cent Batiste, 30 inches wide, 10c—light Blue, Pink and White grounds—neat dot figures and stripes—staple styles that are always wanted and good always.

We thought that was a lot to save and bought.

Fine Wash Goods, Dressy Cottons and Linens, 10c to $1.50 a yard.

50 pieces fine $1.50 Paris Twine Voiles—latest Paris shades, 47 inches wide, $1.00—another example of money saved in buying.

B. & B.

FINE FOULARDS, 45c

All choice, smart, neat and medium styles, as different from usual low priced Foulards as you can well imagine.

Fifty different patterns, mostly Navy Blue and Brown grounds—some Resedas and Porcelains—as choice designs and as good colors as in the Dollar lines.

We bought these Foulards to advantage and at the price they are offered will likely create a sensation on account of their unexpected excellence—just what you want for Shirt Waist Suits.

Black Chiffon Taffeta of wondrous quality, $1.00—a foreign purchase that we couldn't begin to duplicate.

Elegant for Shirt Waist Suits or Coat Suits.

Have Good Chiffon Taffetas you know, for 75c.

Sale of pin stripe and check Taffetas—Navy and White and other colors, 45c.

B. & B.

PILLOW CASES

3,000 of them made of good quality Bleached Muslin—two sizes—42 by 36 and 45 by 36 inches, 10c each.

Much better than usually offered at the price is the reason we tell you about them.

5,000 yards, yard wide American made striped Madras, will make lively selling at 7½c a yard.

500 pieces English Long Cloth, 36 inches wide, in twelve-yard pieces, $1.15 a piece.

Enough under price to pay you to investigate.

No matter what you want in the way of family Cottons, you'll get the best here, and get it under price if it's possible.

Printed, Striped or other Fancy Cottons you get in the best patterns and color effects—selected with care and discrimination.

ABOUT RUGS

It doesn't matter particularly what Rugs we advertise, as we're just about as strong relatively in one line as another.

That is, we've got a good variety all through, and sell them all practically on the same basis—Oriental Rugs and all—small profits.

We do not mean to say each and every Rug is less in price, but each and every Rug is as low in price as any store will sell it, while Nine-Tenths of them Are Less.

We are making you a fair proposition that no other, however vehement, can surpass in actual advantage.

It's deeds, not promises nor seductive over-statements, that count in up-to-date merchandising.

Small Rugs, $4.50 to $250.00.

Room Size Rugs, $7.50 to $900.00.

Above includes all kinds of Rugs—Domestic and Oriental.

AMERICANS NEED MORE EDUCATION

Commissioner Harris Says We Require Instruction in International Law.

TRAINED MEN BETTER PAID

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 15.—United States Commissioner of Education W. T. Harris has given out an important interview on the need of higher education in the United States. He says:

"In the new epoch that is upon us now we are compelled to come into foreign relations. We cannot choose but take part in the councils of the great powers which determine in the aggregate the course of present history; we must have our say—have an influence in international decisions, and an influence that will be proportionate to our strength in population. But for all this there is need to provide sufficient skill.

"Here is the important point: We must educate hundreds of our scholars and politicians in jurisprudence and international law; we must have a corps of trained specialists who know the minute details of each great nation's past history and present achievements—Great Britain, Germany, France, Russia, Austria, Italy, Spain, Holland, the Scandinavian countries, and now, more than ever, Japan."

College-Bred Men Earn More.

Touching upon the popular idea that thousands of college-bred men are impracticable and are crowding the large cities seeking employment in vain, Mr. Harris said in part: "The college graduate, statistics show, earns a salary on an average about double that of the high school graduate; where the high school graduate receives $1,000 per year on an average, the college or university graduate receives $2,000. The college-bred man is apt to find ready employment as an expert in some scientific line or as a linguist.

"The late Mr. Huntington at one time expressed himself as believing that the college education was not such a valuable asset, after all. I took occasion to look into the matter at that time in relation to Mr. Huntington's own vast business enterprises. I found that in the state of Texas alone he had 200 men of higher education employed as lawyers to look after Southern Pacific railway methods. In addition he had numerous other college-bred men employed in many of the choicest positions that it was in his power to give. The student of higher education far surpasses the secondary student in his ability to see lines of causality and of genesis in facts and events, and his power to accumulate in his life experience from year to year is far greater.

Skilled Observation Illustrated.

"Just as Agassiz could see in the scale of a fish enough of its character to enable him to draw the fish, although he had not yet seen the fish, and just as Asa Gray could divine the history of a tree from seeing it at a single glance, so in a thousand ways and in a thousand different provinces the old man who in youth has been trained in the college and in the professional school acquires powers of seeing things in their history and in their complex relation.

"Even the illiterate grows, although slowly, in mental power by reason of his experience in life. But his experience is limited to what he can observe in himself and in a small circle of neighbors. But his school-educated companion who can read, and does read, is all the time widening his mental view by what he gets from the printed page, and growing in accuracy of thought on account of it. Hence it happens, after 50 years of life, at the age of 60 years, the illiterate has grown as much by experience as he could grow by one year of schooling, while his literate companion has grown at least 10 times as much."

CONFESSES HE STOLE GOVERNMENT GOLD

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—Another scandal in the San Francisco mint has developed. Dimmick and his theft of $30,000 has scarcely passed the public mind before it has been conclusively proved that at least one of the melters has been systematically stealing since August last, when he first went into the employ of the mint. The name of the latest criminal is Albert Hauser and he was arrested by Secret Service Agent William J. Burns. Hauser confessed to the theft of $400 worth of gold in the skimming process and made restitution. There is no way of ascertaining how much Hauser has stolen during his brief employment at the mint. Though only $400 in gold was traced to him, it is believed that a much larger sum was peddled by his agents at places where recovery was impossible.

In his confession he stated that in skimming the gold sent to the mint for sale he would include a certain amount of gold while dipping off the slag, and that subsequently he would extract the globules and take them home. There he had a crucible, and he would re-melt the globules into bars, adding an amount of silver sufficient to disguise the gold from the supposition that it came from the mint.

MUSICAL CELEBRATION.

Elaborate Program for Braddock Carnegie Library's Fifteenth Anniversary.

The most elaborate musical festival Braddock has ever had will be conducted tomorrow evening in Carnegie music hall in celebration of the 15th anniversary of the founding of the Carnegie free library and clubhouse at Braddock. The festival will be in charge of Walter E. Hall, F. R. C. O., organist of Trinity Episcopal church, this city, and of Carnegie music hall, Braddock.

Of more than 1,000 libraries built by Mr. Carnegie throughout the world, the Braddock institution was the first, and it is one of the two built by him which are endowed. It cost $450,000.

Mr. Hall has been preparing for the celebration for months. He has drilled one chorus in Homestead and another in Braddock. The combined chorus numbers 160 voices. The vested choir of Trinity church will take part in the program.

Altoona Man Attempts Suicide.

ALTOONA, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—James Mallet, aged 56 years, a well-known resident of this city, attempted suicide while temporarily insane at his home here this morning. Mallet cut an ugly gash in his throat with a razor and then called for help, claiming he had met with an accident. He was removed to the hospital, where the wound was stitched, and he will recover.

SENATOR QUAY IMPROVING AT HIS BROTHER'S HOME

Saw No Visitors, but Physician Says His Condition Is Better.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Senator Quay spent a quiet day at the home of his brother, at the Morganza reform school. The inclement weather forced him to remain close indoors and he spent the greater portion of the day in his room. His condition tonight was reported by his brother, Jerome Quay, to be slightly improved, and a steady mending of his condition is looked for.

Senator Quay saw no visitors today and it was stated this afternoon that he would see no one but his family until he had more completely convalesced. His physician stated that the condition of his liver was much the same as upon his arrival at Morganza, but that his general condition was improved. Good weather is hoped for in order that the patient may be out of doors as much as possible.

HERRICK WILL CONTROL CONVENTION IN OHIO

Governor, Cox, Dick and Foraker Will Be Named Delegates to Chicago.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

COLUMBUS, O., May 15.—The Republican state convention will meet here next Tuesday and Wednesday.

There are 951 delegates in the convention. A large majority is affiliated with what is called the "old Hanna guard," so that there is no doubt about the convention being controlled by Gov. Herrick, George B. Cox and Senator Dick, who, with Senator Foraker, will be the delegates-at-large to the Republican national convention at Chicago.

Lewis C. Laylin is a candidate for a third term for secretary of state. The principal contention is for continuance of control of the party organization, and it is conceded that Gov. Herrick, who will be both temporary and permanent chairman of the convention, will be re-elected as the Ohio member of the national committee, and that Senator Dick will be re-elected chairman of the state executive committee.

EVANGELIST TO LECTURE ON THE WEST COUNTRY

The Rev. Mark Guy Pearse, the evangelist of London, will lecture this evening in Christ church, Center and Negley avenues. The subject will be "West Country Sketches," and Dr. Pearse handles it entertainingly. Besides being an eloquent and pleasing speaker, Dr. Pearse is noted for the interest he take in the people in large cities who, from force of circumstances, are down in the hard strata of life. He has for years given his time to considering the conditions of the people in the East Side of London. The lecture will be free.

Wall of Residence Collapses.

Portion of the side wall of the double brick house at 5637 Broad street fell yesterday afternoon into the foundation being prepared for a new building. The foundation is about 10 feet deep, and the rain of the last two days caused the bank on the side of the brick house to slide, weakening its foundation. The house is occupied by three families, but all escaped without injury. The building is owned by Frank de Lucca of Chatham street and Webster avenue.

West Liberty

ALL THIS WEEK

Triumphant Sale of Matchless Lots Goes On

Neither rain nor hard times cut any figure at this sale. Go out and see for yourself. Don't take anybody's word for it. People know real money-making property when they see it. They know our properties always make good. Hurry up if you want in. Not many lots left and the people who have bought are satisfied with their purchases. Ask any of them.

Big Crowd Out Yesterday

Yesterday wasn't a bad day for lot sales, and the people came out to West Liberty and they bought lots. They didn't have to paddle around in mud—no mud there. They stepped out of the Mount Lebanon cars right into our specially chartered cars which carried them through and all around our property. The chartered cars run on the new lightning speed Mount Washington tunnel trolley line which is now in partial operation.

Many of the Sunday buyers were people who had bought earlier in the sale. They were so well satisfied after investigating the properties of West Liberty that many bought additional lots. Many resold their purchases at a handsome advance. Some of them had bought without seeing the property. When they saw the improvements they were jubilant. They'll be back this week with their friends.

Prices---Terms

Only $5 Down—Then $1 a Week Up.

No Interest. No Taxes for 2 Years. 15% off for Cash.

Guarantee Title & Trust Company's general warranty deed free with each lot. No lot less than 30x100 feet. And think of them selling at $2.00 a foot.

Free! Free! Free!

To encourage people to build houses and stores at West Liberty, we will give away absolutely free $25,000.00 worth of choice building sites. An unheard of chance for you to get a home for almost nothing. People contemplating moving, here's your chance. Get out where it's clean. Building material on the ground.

Free Car Tickets

In addition to furnishing Free Street Car Tickets to the plan we pay railroad fares of all buyers within a radius of 100 miles of Pittsburgh. Out-of-town people, when you come to the city call at our offices. We also pay liberal cash commissions on all sales made to your friends. Interest your friends and acquaintances. Big money selling lots.

Street Improvements—City Water, Etc.

You're not buying a mud-hole out in the country when you buy at West Liberty. Via the Mount Washington tunnel through which cars will be running this summer, you'll be within 10 minutes of the Pittsburgh postoffice. West Liberty adjoins the 32nd ward. It has graded, paved, curbed and sewered streets with wide sidewalks, gas and city water, churches, schools, stores and business places of all kinds. Scores of houses springing up as if by magic. 160 houses under roof or contract. One prominent man, who knows a good thing when he sees it, bought 20 lots and will erect 20 houses. The property is high and dry—600 feet above low water, in a fragrant ladened country place where is no smoke or dirt—where the air is always pure; where you have good water and where you have all the advantages of living in the city. The new tunnel under Mount Washington and the short-cut trolley cars will bring 100,000 people to West Liberty in 10 years. Every lot there will be worth double the money this year.

Come out today. Don't mind the weather. Ample shelter. Jump a Mount Lebanon or Castle Shannon car on Liberty avenue, Smithfield or Carson streets. Get off at Beechwood stop, which adjoins the West Liberty entrance to our $2,000,000.00 tunnel. There you will be transferred to the new tunnel line—the transfer is only temporary. The cars will be running through the tunnel this summer. We sell lots by mail.

CINCINNATI, May 15.—In the presence of 21,000 people the Cincinnatis defeated the New Yorks in their last game of the present series, this afternoon. The heavy hitting of the locals was responsible for their overwhelming victory. Taylor was relieved by Milligan in the latter half of the second inning. Mertes and Kelley were put out of the game for disputing decisions, McGraw and Schlei being the respective successors. Score:

MEET CALLED OFF.

W. & J. and State Will Not Have Dual This Spring.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Plans for a dual field and track meet between Washington and Jefferson and State college have fallen through. State demanded expenses and medals, which the local athletic association did not feel able to undertake the paying of State's expenses, and plans were mutually cancelled, with good feeling remaining. With the cancellation of the field games at Geneva, W. and J. will not be entered in a meet this year. This is a big disappointment, inasmuch as W. and J. has one of the best track teams in her history.

The annual interclass field and track games postponed from last Saturday will be held at College park Thursday afternoon in connection with the annual class meet of the W. and J. academy.

FIELD CLUB MEETS CLEVELAND CRICKET CLUB

The Field club will open its season of 1904 on Saturday next on its grounds by meeting its old opponents, the Cleveland Cricket club. Among the players to uphold the reputation of the home club will be found many old standbys in J. Mackrell, F. H. Taylor, T. Warkins, J. Bissell, J. Stewart, R. Roberts and Robertson. Some new talent who are strangers to Pittsburgh will be given a trial.

SOME WELL-KNOWN PREP. SCHOOL BASEBALL PLAYERS

TRAINING HINTS TO SPRINTERS BY A WORLD'S CHAMPION

Arthur Duffey Tells What Beginners Should Do in Order to Be in Condition for Competition, and How to Act in Race.

By ARTHUR DUFFEY, Georgetown University, World's Record Holder for 50, 75 and 100-Yard Dashes.

All schoolboys are more or less interested in athletics, either on the gridiron, baseball diamond or the cinder path, and nearly all of them have ambition to excel in some form of manly sport.

It is chiefly to boys that I address these hints on training, which are the result of my own personal experience during my athletic career, which began during my schoolboy days. For this ambition few know outside the trained and successful athlete the hardships, self-denials and hard work to be encountered before one can literally come to the front in athletic sports, particularly in sprinting.

No hard and fast rules can be laid down for building up the body and training it for athletics, as no two constitutions or bodies are alike, each individual requiring different treatment. Each must exercise and train to suit his own physical requirements and capabilities.

Strict Training Rules Necessary.

First, elementary training must be commenced long before the more vigorous course required to prepare one's self for public performance or championship form. To the beginner in sprint running, I would say that the strictest rules must be followed and a regular life led. Rise early, take cold or tepid bath and a hard rub down. Eat plain and wholesome food. Never overexert yourself, and with the foregoing rules and early to bed every night any boy or man will be put in fair condition as a preliminary to a regular course of training.

Begin by jogging about a mile or two across country in the morning at an easy pace, keeping this up for two or three weeks, and always taking a good rub-down when you return home. After this preliminary work in the morning, like a rest, and during the day use chest weights or dumbbells for developing the arm, chest and shoulder muscles.

As in running, begin these exercises gently, gradually increasing the violence and length of duration when you find you can do so without fatigue. Never overtire yourself in any way. Take a brisk walk before going to bed and retire early. After a course of about three weeks as given above you will find your muscles developed, your lungs in good condition and your body generally so evenly developed that you will be in proper shape for training.

Having gotten your body into condition to undergo a strict and rigorous course, begin by running sprints of 50 or 60 yards for a week, running the distance about five times at almost your top speed. The afternoon is the best time for this, and before you say that I have always tried to do my training as near the hour at which my race is to be run as possible. The reason for this is that if a regular life is led your body will not have had a longer or shorter time in action than if the training is done at the regular time when you toe the mark on the day of the race.

Acquire Long, Bounding Stride.

After a week of these bursts of speed, the art of starting may be taken up. On the start depends the race, and starting is the most difficult part of sprinting for the beginner to master. The old method of an upright standing start has gone out of date. The proper method of starting is the "crouching" start.

First the hands must be on the line, the forward foot being five inches behind the line, one knee touching the ground and level with the instep of the forward foot. At the "caution" from the starter the athlete approaches the line and assumes an easy position. At the next word, "get set," raise the back knee from the ground, throw the weight of the entire body on the forward knee, and let the body fall forward as if you were going to fall on your face.

Hold your breath all the time you are on the mark. At the report of the pistol push the ground away from your hands. This will raise your body. Push hard with both feet simultaneously, although you appear to be falling forward, your momentum will keep you up, and before you realize it you are flying down the track.

Now you are going—pay no attention whatever to your opponents; keep your head up and look straight forward all the time. Run as if you were running alone, whether your opponent is ahead or behind you. After leaving the mark try to acquire a bounding step similar to a rubber ball and stride well from hips, which gives you the advantage of a longer stride. While I am barely five feet seven inches in height, I take a stride in racing of nine feet, as big as that taken by he no heavier, three inches taller than I, who is six feet one inch. On nearing the tape, say about 10 feet away, the runner should pull himself together with all the force that he can command, and every effort to cut down your opponent may be, and fall forward, or practically throw yourself bodily on the tape at the finishing line. This will gain you many inches and win you many a race.

Of course the start, the stride, the spurt and the finish must all be practiced separately, a good spurt and finish being fully as essential as a good start, which, as I have before said, is half the race.

Mode of Breathing Important.

To become a good sprinter you must master the art of breathing. As the runner approaches the mark at the cautionary command to "get set" the inhalation should be deep, but not to the full expansion of the chest. The breath should then be held during the time you are crouched on the mark. Your whole attention should then be concentrated to listening for the pistol crack. Keep totally oblivious to everything else, in fact, hold yourself literally in breathless suspense. At the crack of the gun, force the air from the lungs by a quick ejaculation or grunt. This helps your start as a pugilist adds force to his blow by grunting as he delivers it home. Catch another deep breath with a gasp instantly, which will be in your second stride, and hold that breath until the tape is reached (in a 50 or 60-yard sprint), when you involuntarily gasp it out as you reach the tape.

Although this is an awful strain, the athlete will become used to it and perceive its advantage. In a longer race, of 100 yards, I take two breaths, the second one being at about 60 yards, which lasts me to the finish. The breathing must be done through the mouth, as it reaches the lungs quicker. Never entirely empty your lungs. The minute you do you collapse and lose your speed.

A beginner should practise breathing daily according to these rules and should expand the chest and lungs by the chest weights.

Use of the Arms.

The arms should be developed, as well as the legs, as they play an important part in sprinting. On rising from the start clinch your fists. Bring the left arm diagonally across the chest, the elbow being well forward, and each arm is swung across the body alternately in unison with the stride. This cross-motion of the arms, I have found, proves a great help to maintaining the "bounding" stride. Great care should be taken when practising this motion that the arms are not swung too far out or the assistance will be nullified.

The body should be carried at an inclination forward of about 80 degrees. Many a race is lost by a man carrying his body upright and rigid, both of which retard the speed.

In conclusion I would lay down the following rules: Let the diet be plain. Dispense with pastries, candies, and above all, never smoke or drink alcoholic liquids when training. You will be better without the two latter at all times. Cigarettes are fatal to athletes. Bathe daily and always use rough towels after a bath and after taking any exercise. Never overexert yourself and exhaust all your strength in any trial. Always finish your training with "something left in you." Only work the hardest in the race itself.

By practising the above methods and persisting in them they are entirely mastered, you will gain strength and increase your speed to a degree beyond your expectations. Finally, let me impress on all aspiring athletes the fact that success in sprints in training and steady perseverance are as essential as the bulldog determination necessary to land you a winner at the tape. "The Dangers of Overtraining," by Dr. George F. Shrady, will appear in The Gazette next Monday, May 23.

WIFE BEATING COMES HIGH.

South Sider Penalized $100 and Costs by Magistrate Vitchestain.

William Frederick was fined $100 or six months to the workhouse yesterday morning by Magistrate Vitchestain. He was found guilty of beating his wife.

Jacob Reese was given the same penalty on the charge of biting the point of the nose off Mary Voelker and the top of the ear off George Day during a boarding house row on South Twelfth street.

Frank Clapp was fined $50 or 30 days to the workhouse for threatening the life of the cook in a boarding house at 7805 Carson street.

Y. M. C. A. Convention Ended.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 15.—Two mass meetings, one for women and the other for men, services in several churches and an evening meeting at City Convention hall, today ended the 35th international convention of the Y. M. C. A. of North America. At the meeting for women Miss Helen M. Gould read the lesson of the day.

INTERSCHOLASTICS HAVE HARD SCHEDULE

The Interscholastic baseball team will open its season June 13, playing the Indiana Normal at Indiana, and then going on a trip of two weeks over the independent circuit. The team will be under the same manager as last season and Kerr Price, captain of Shadyside academy team, will again be the field captain.

The team will be chosen from the players who do the best work in the remaining school games. Price, who will make the selections, will not announce the team for at least two weeks. Don Doyle of the Princeton varsity nine, will be one of the pitchers.

The schedule follows: June 13, at Indiana Normal; June 14-15, at Westminster college (commencement days); June 16, Ohio Works at Youngstown; June 17, at Warren, O.; June 19, at Niles; June 20, open; June 21-22, at Waynesburg; June 23, Washington, Pa., or Mercer; June 24-25, at Sharon; June 27, at Homestead; June 29, at Carnegie; July 2, Turtle Creek Valley Athletics, at Wilmerding; July 6, Steel Works A. C., at McKeesport; July 16, at Rochester. The Interscholastics will be the opening attraction at Waynesburg and at Washington. Teams wishing dates address R. R. Guy, The Gazette.

The Interscholastics last year played the leading independent clubs in this section and did very well, also beating college teams. The team this season will be composed of the cream of the schools and players from leading colleges.

RISHER RELEASES TWO GOOD PLAYERS

Coursey and Sixsmith Leave Homestead and Edmundson Is Signed.

P. A. C. STARTS SCHEDULE

Manager Risher of the Homestead I. A. C. yesterday released Catcher Tom Coursey and First Baseman John Sixsmith. Mays Edmundson of McKeesport, who covered third and captained the team the greater part of last year, was signed for third by Risher.

Coursey was let out because Lee Fohl is doing well and he had nothing to do but warm the bench. Lindsay, the former Rochester player, will be brought in from right field to play first and Tom Delehanty goes from third to left field. The outfield will be Delehanty, left; Brisbine, middle, and O'Leary, right. Sixsmith is a good player, but Risher put Lindsay on the bag because of his hitting. Charlie McCloskey, who is playing great ball at second, will continue as captain.

Homestead plays W. and J. college today at Washington and the Monongahela City team at Monongahela tomorrow. The Shelby steel works team will be at Homestead Wednesday and the Grove City college team Thursday and Friday. P. A. C. on Saturday finishing the week.

The Pittsburgh Athletic club will start its twilight games tomorrow evening with the Heron Hill Athletic club at Friendship park. On Thursday evening the Allegheny Lyceum will be the attraction. P. A. C. intends to have these games started promptly at 6 o'clock, so that nine full innings can be played. Late starting has been the greatest trouble with twilight games, and P. A. C. expects to furnish its patrons a full game the same as on a Saturday.

Manager Wentz will introduce a new method in the umpiring. Hereafter all games at Friendship park will indicate the balls and strikes by the raising of his arm instead of by voice. This will not only make it plain to persons in all parts of the grounds, but will also make it easier for the players themselves. The umpire's blouse will have a large letter "B" on the left arm and an "S" on the right. Umpire Franklin, an old and experienced man at the business, will officiate. On Saturday P. A. C. goes to Homestead and also on June 2. On June 1 H. L. A. C. will appear at Friendship park.

Phil Lewis, the Pittsburgh boy, has made a great hit at Baltimore. The Baltimore American of a recent date, commenting on him and Steve Griffin, a former Pittsburgh player, said: "Lewis at short has won the full commendation of all patrons of the game. He is without doubt the find of the season—not afraid of any kind of a drive, and as fine a fielder as has appeared on the local diamond. He is a combination of Jennings as a fielder in his best days, and as a batter will be a second Lajoie, as his methods at the bat are exactly like that king of the willow. Old reliable Steve Griffin at third, though a little rusty for the place of practice, will be in the hunt before long. His easy throws to first are familiar to the rooters, and his batting will be all right in a few more games.

Jock Menefee and his Johnstown team will play a twilight game at Swissvale Thursday evening, the game being called at 6 o'clock sharp. Tomorrow evening Verona will play at Swissvale and on Saturday Allegheny Lyceum. Gumbert and Irwin will do the pitching for Swissvale.

The Braddock team is being strengthened, among the best recruits being Kelly, this year's captain of the American college team of Chicago, an infielder, and Hughes, formerly with Signet, O., a pitcher. Durgan, formerly with Punxsutawney, has also been added to the lineup. Braddock plays Duquesne next Saturday, the following Saturday at Niles, and Decoration day at Sharon.

"Lefty" Jackson, the Youngstown pitcher, has gone to Mt. Clemens to get in shape.

Horses at Greensburg.

GREENSBURG, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—Almost half a hundred horses are stabled at the old fair grounds, and a busy racing season is anticipated by members of the Gentlemen's Driving club of Greensburg. Matinee races will be begun early next month. Many Greensburg horses will be entered in the Lake Erie circuit races, scheduled for the second week in July.

LAWRENCE Paint is guaranteed—you run no risk.

SHADYSIDE AND KISKI WILL MEET AGAIN TODAY

East Liberty at Waynesburg for Two Games—News from Colleges.

The Kiskiminitas Springs school nine will play Shadyside academy this afternoon on the Shadyside field. It will be a championship game and the second of the series, Shadyside winning the first. Shultz will pitch for Shadyside and Seanor for Kiski. Beatty, one of the Kiski pitchers, has dropped out of school and has gone to his home at Meadville. He was one of the best slab artists in the academy.

East Liberty academy plays the Waynesburg college team today and tomorrow at Waynesburg. Capt. McCracken will send Eddie Engle against the collegians today and King tomorrow. Bailey will pitch against the Greenville High school Saturday at Greenville.

Don Doyle of the Princeton pitching squad has just left the hospital. He caught cold on the southern training trip and another on the trip north, which became so pronounced that he was compelled to quit playing. He was with the team at Cornell Saturday.

The students have become much impressed with Michigan Turner, the big Dartmouth tackle who "made" the all-American football team last season. Notwithstanding his hugeness, Turner covers big territory in middle field for the baseball team, and the fleetness with which he runs bases shows that he has the "hurry-up" idea that Yost exacts. It is said that Yost has a big, strapping young brother who will enter some college next year, and that he is likely to come to Michigan. In speaking of him last fall Coach Yost said: "He can play better football than I ever thought of doing."

The Harvard football schedule for next fall is: October 1, Williams at Cambridge; October 5, Bowdoin at Cambridge; October 8, Maine at Cambridge; October 12, Bates at Cambridge; October 15, West Point at West Point; October 22, Carlisle at Cambridge; October 29, University of Pennsylvania at Cambridge; November 5, Dartmouth at Cambridge; November 12, Holy Cross at Cambridge; November 19, Yale at New Haven.

The Princeton Freshmen beat the Lawrenceville academy Saturday at Princeton, 14 to 8. Zahniser, Cochran and Scott of Pittsburgh played on the Freshmen team.

Tennis Club Officers Chosen.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The Park Tennis club, an organization of Monongahela and Bridgeport young men, at a meeting yesterday elected Dr. H. D. Graham president; H. O. Hornbake, vice president, and James Craft, secretary and treasurer. A new court is being constructed. Among the members are: William Troth, A. E. Graham, C. E. Edmiston, E. J. Ellsworth, H. C. Butterfield, R. L. Aubery, Jr., C. A. Galloway, Boyer J. Hadden, J. Clarke Hough, H. Sawyer, Frank Hill, William A. Griffin, Lewis Clemmer and Dr. L. N. Reichard.

W. and J. Team Is Home.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The W. and J. team returned tonight from the first eastern trip ever taken by a W. and J. team in baseball. While away it played four games, winning but one. The team will be given an ovation at the college tomorrow morning. Homestead comes to Washington tomorrow for the first game of the season, and on Tuesday Westminster will be here for the annual game. On Wednesday the team will go to Waynesburg, and on Friday and Saturday Allegheny College will be played in Washington.

RECORDS OF THE SCHOOL PLAYERS

Uptegraff Leads Shadyside, Parker, Kiski and W. Lytle, East Liberty Academy.

OTHER FIGURES ARE SHOWN

Charlie Ahl is at the top of the Shadyside batters, but Tom Uptegraff is the real leader, as he has played in all the games thus far, while Ahl has been in but two. Colvin is also leading Kiski, but he took part in but one game, while Capt. Parker has been in all. Will Lytle leads the East Liberty academy team. Capt. Alex McCracken is down because of his illness. The records of the school players follow:

ENDOWED BEDS IN HOSPITAL

Pittsburghers Announce Donations to the National Jewish Hospital at Denver.

CONSUMPTIVES CARED FOR

To administer the affairs of the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives many of the most prominent Jews of the country met yesterday at the Henry hotel. The institution, which is at Denver, is one of the most unique of the many charities of the Hebrews and it was gratifying to the Pittsburgh friends of the hospital to learn yesterday that this city has played no small part in the success of the philanthropy. The gathering was the annual meeting of the officers and executive committee and was attended by about 40 people.

The old officers were re-elected, reports read and approved and the chair empowered to appoint a committee which will confer with the Society of Jewish Charities next week in New York. The session lasted during the greater part of the day, and, before the visitors departed,

ABRAHAM LIPPMAN,
Who Gave $1,000 to the Jewish Hospital.

they were entertained at an informal dinner by Philip Hamburger, at the Henry.

Of chief interest to Pittsburgh was the announcement of two gifts to the hospital. In memory of his parents and in honor of the 70th birthday of his sister, Mrs. Rauh, Abraham Lippman donated $1,000 to endow a bed. Henry, Morris and Jacob Kaufmann donated a like sum to endow a bed, in honor of their sister, Dina Kaufmann. These gifts were received by the president and their announcement brought forth generous applause.

The morning session was opened by President Samuel Grabfelder of Louisville and the visitors were welcomed by the Rev. Dr. J. Leonard Levy. The other officers present were: first vice president, Sol W. Levis, Cincinnati; second vice president, Louis Gerstly, Philadelphia; secretary, Alfred Muller, Denver; treasurer, Benjamin Altheimer, St. Louis, and field secretary, Mrs. S. Pisko. The following trustees, who are not officers, were present: Philip Hamburger (member of the executive committee), Joseph B. Schoenberger, New York, and Martin A. Marks, Cleveland. The local committee was represented as follows: A. Lippman, M. Oppenheimer, O. H. Rosenbaum and, upon the recommendation of Mrs. Enoch Rauh, these names were added: Mrs. Rauh, Mrs. Josiah Cohen, Mrs. Rosalie Rauh, A. J. Sunstein, A. Leo Weil and Morris Kaufmann.

The principal business transacted was the discussion of ways and means of caring for the patients after they are discharged. The matter was brought up in the annual report of the president. He said that many patients, upon discharge, returned to the east or their old localities, where, with bad climatic conditions, they suffered a relapse. He recommended that the hospital provide a means of keeping these people in the Rocky mountain zone. The question of establishing labor bureaus or a hospital farm was discussed but nothing definite was decided upon. The president will appoint a committee to confer with the Society of Jewish Charities on the subject.

President Grabfelder's report was able and instructive. He said that since the opening of the hospital, in 1899, 600 patients have been treated. On January 1, 1903, there were 69 patients in the hospital and during the year 345 were admitted. A year later 79 remained. Of the 165 48 were females and 117 males, ranging in age from 10 years to 60, and 151 were Jews, 2 Catholics, 3 Presbyterians, 3 Episcopalians, 4 Methodists, 1 Lutheran and 1 Unitarian. Of this number, 37 entirely recovered, 45 greatly improved, 30 slightly improved, 35 remained unimproved, 4 did not develop tubercular disease and 4 died. The daily per capita expense was $1.31 and the average daily attendance 78. The greater percentage of the patients were housewives and tailors. The cost for the year was $31,044 80, but the president said $50,000 is required. The hospital is supported by about 2,800 subscribers, Pittsburghers, for 1903, contributed $1,600. The hospital now owns about $125,000 worth of property. President Grabfelder was warmly applauded.

After lunch the meeting convened at 3 o'clock. By invitation ex-Judge Josiah Cohen made an address. Talks were also made by several other Pittsburghers, including O. H. Rosenbaum. Resolutions were passed in memory of the late Leo N. Levi.

CHURCH NEEDS SIMPLE SERVICE

Rev. G. M. McCampbell Tells What Committee of Eleven Will Report to Assembly.

TOO MUCH SERMONIZING

At a meeting of the General assembly of the Presbyterian church, which opens next Thursday in Buffalo, and the fact that one of the most important questions to be considered is, Shall the Presbyterian church have a uniform devotional service in her churches, the Rev. G. Meriwether McCampbell, M. A., of Millvale, sends the following communication on the subject:

This is the important question to be considered and voted upon at the meeting of the general assembly. The committee of eleven, of which the Rev. Henry Van Dyke, D. D., L.L. D., is the chairman, known as the committee of "Forms of service," is composed of representative men in the church, such as the Rev. John Dewitt, of Princeton; Cuthbert Hall, of Union seminary, New York; William H. Richards of the Fifth Avenue Brick church, New York; and from the laity, John R. Converse and the Hon. John E. Parsons, the famous lawyer of New York; Nolan R. Best and others. This committee was appointed by the last general assembly in response to two overtures, one from the presbytery of Denver, the other from the synod of New York, "to take into consideration and if possible to prepare, in harmony with the directory of worship, a book of simple forms and services, which shall be proper and helpful for voluntary use in Presbyterian churches in the celebration of the sacraments, in marriages and funerals, and in the conduct of public worship."

The committee has been assiduously at work and will submit its report during the sittings of the assembly for its approval and disposition. It was instructed to work in conference with the publishing committee of the board of publication, and was also instructed "to draw from the holy scriptures and the usage of the Reformed churches; to avoid those forms which savor of ritualism; to embody sound doctrine in the languages of orderly devotion, and to keep ever in mind the end of Presbyterian worship, which is that all the people should join in the service of God in the church, as He is revealed in Jesus Christ."

Too Much Pulpiteering.

The importance of this movement is quite obvious to a very large constituency in the great Presbyterian communion. Observe the historical bearing of this movement. The church of the days of John Calvin of Huss, John Knox and Martin Luther, was closely allied with liturgical forms of worship. In those days of severe pressure and the "lust of persecution" and the "terrors of a dark, disastrous time," the old medieval world hastened to its end, and as Stanley says in his "Christian Institutions," when "the new world was hardly struggling into existence, these great minds and the hearts of the common people found rest and tranquility in their tried and well fretted bodies in the deep and calmly worded petitions of spiritual forms of worship." Such, too, find a ready response from thoughtful, wearied men and jaded worshipers of a modern church audience.

The Presbyterian church has run too much to pulpiteering, it would seem. People should not go to church simply to hear a sermon; that—but much more—is the desire near to Omnipotent God, to worship Him in their spirits, as well as to be instructed in their minds, by the sublime teachings of the Bible. These fierce days of rush and toil and weariness are tasing the wornbiotul spirit of mankind. In the church assembly their hearts should be met by a devotional service that should cheer and also humble them, and fit them to listen to the sermon address. The comeborn day congregation is illy prepared to hear what God would speak. A well ordered devotional service preceding the sermon, in which they of the pew have opportunity to voice much of the service, will meet, in our judgement, the approval of thousands of Presbyterian worshipers in America.

Semi-Operatic Choirs.

One scarcely hears, in the customary extemporaneous prayers in the church, the paucity of congregational singing, and the artistic, semi-operatic renderings of the choir numbers, much that fits a man, woman or child to be other than a mere spectator. Christian Faith, too much liturgy is as undesirable as none at all. The form and order of worship which Dr. Henry Van Dyke's committee will present for the assembly's action will be a wise medium between old liturgical forms and the nondescript, abnormal and bald order for so long a time in vogue in many Presbyterian churches.

The chairman and his broad-minded coadjutors will present an order of worship, historic, tender, spiritual, uplifting to the burdened, weary worshiper, and he will believe and feel that he has been in God's house and his soul will be enlarged, his life again panoplied with holy aids to better living and a sincerer service. The prospect is very encouraging that the assembly will approve of the committee's report.

There is no "ex-cathedra" dictum in a deliverance of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. So, if the report is approved, "the book of simple forms and services" will not be obligatory upon the sessions or the ministry, but the matter will be left to the wise consideration and expediency of each church. At the same time that which the supreme court of the church recommends will have its forceful weight.

The people will hail gladly in their "assembling of themselves together" some sympathetic, heart-uplifting, orderly service, in which the scenes and strife of an engrossing world may be buried from the soul's sight, as the Presbyterian men and women of this day go to the house of prayer and are aided, not hindered, in seeking a spiritual uplift.

HOW TO BE HAPPY.

Now Is the Time to Enjoy the Comforts and Blessings of Life.

The Rev. Dr. Warren G. Partridge preached in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church last evening on "How to Be Happy," saying in part:

We should not seek happiness as our chief end in life. Those people who set out in life to seek happiness as their goal are disappointed. Happiness comes in the path of duty. By doing our work and caring for those dependent upon us we can find the best of earthly bliss.

Do not postpone your happiness. The most of humanity postpone their happiness until it is too late. Boys and girls in school think that they will be happy when they finish their school days and get out into the world. Many business men fancy that they will be happy when they retire from business and have more time to enjoy their families and friends. Many laboring men postpone their happiness until they pay off the mortgage on their little home. Thousands of men put off real enjoyment in life until they own a fine home, pay of all their debts and have a big bank account. Think of the years which are lost in postponing happiness! If we were wise men and women we would realize that the way to be happy is to enjoy the present. We may never have such a chance to enjoy life as we have today in the thickest of the fight. There is no happiness like the joy of achievement. Overcoming difficulties brings satisfaction. It is the strenuous life that brings zest into life.

Selfishness defeats happiness. The selfish man and woman are always unhappy. They always want what they do not possess. Selfishness is catch up with envy. Thousands do not see their own blessing, while they sigh for the houses, the carriages, the power and peace of their more prosperous neighbors. The selfish man and woman cannot be happy. It is absolutely impossible. Unselfish people discover the secret of happiness. It is living and working for the happiness of others which brings peace.

FORTY-SIX CONVICTS ARE CONFIRMED AT TRENTON

TRENTON, N. J., May 15.—(Special.)—Forty-six convicts, three of them women, today received the right of confirmation from the hands of the Rt. Rev. James A. McFaul, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Trenton, the services being held in the prison chapel. The women wore white veils and the men were attired in neat black suits and "boiled" shirts, prison garb being dispensed with entirely for the occasion.

Policeman's Victim Dying.

SCOTTDALE, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The condition of John Welsh, who was shot by his brother-in-law, Policeman John Shay, yesterday, is much worse today, and his friends fear that he may not recover. Shay, who was last night released on bail, is at his home.

WILL ENFORCE THE SUNDAY LAW

DAY ESSENTIAL TO MEN

"The Sabbath in Pennsylvania," was the subject of an address delivered in the Shadyside United Presbyterian church last evening by the Rev T. T. Mutchler, D. D., of Philadelphia, corresponding secretary of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath association, who is here to establish branches of the association in this county. The association urges strict Sabbath observance and is arrayed against those who call upon employes to work on that day. Dr. Mutchler said in part:

We need not endeavor to interest the people of this commonwealth in the great Sabbath question. All are already interested and affected by it. A continental Sunday means continued toil with no more wages, and continued business without additional profit. It means depriving men of their rest and religious privileges, and the question that comes home to all is, What can I do to help preserve the day?

Three lines of influence can be exerted by us. We can keep the Sabbath day ourselves and refrain from things which are not necessary; we can refuse to place burdens upon others by not demanding Sunday service of another, and we can join with the Christian and moral citizens about us and compel the lawless to desist from Sunday traffic which is unnecessary. The increasing desires for world's pleasures and the greed for gain on the part of the unscrupulous has led many to make this rest day one for business and profit.

It was to protect men from this encroachment upon their rights that the law-makers of 1794 enacted the valuable "Sunday law." This law has no reference to Christianity any more than the laws against theft or murder. It protects the rights of man to one day of rest in seven, on which he can rest his body in these days of activity and rest his mind, which is no less important, and spend some time with his family, a privilege which all men should appreciate.

The "Sunday law" has been the only protection that has stood between the laborer and continued toil; between the business man and continued open shop or store; in fact, between a continental Sunday and the rest day. It has been the aim and object of the enemies of the Sabbath to have this valuable "Sunday law" removed from our statutes or so modified that those who have no respect for the rights of others can do as they choose on that day.

The object in forming a state Sabbath association was to encourage a proper observance of Sunday and by forming auxiliary organizations in each county to unite the entire state in opposition to the repeal of our Sunday laws. We will stand firm and true and gladly join hands with others in protecting the day from desecration and the "Sunday law" from attack.

DROWNED IN BATH TUB.

Wellsville Youth Meets Death in Only Six Inches of Water.

WELLSVILLE, O., May 15.—This afternoon, while taking a bath, Frank Bayliss, an 18-year-old young man of this place, lost his life by drowning in a bath tub.

He had gone to the bath room to take a bath and upon not coming back for about two hours his roommate went to call him. Upon getting no response, the bath room door was broken open and the young man was found dead in the bath tub. It is supposed that he had taken a fit and fell face forward into the water, which was only about six inches deep.

Church Anniversary Celebrated.

WASHINGTON, PA., May 15.—(Special.)—The 40th anniversary of the founding of the Second Presbyterian church of Washington was formally celebrated today. At the morning service a special historical sermon was preached by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. James H. Snowden, who has had charge of the congregation for the past 18 years. In the evening a popular meeting was held.

GROWTH IN TRADE QUITE BENEFICIAL

Imports and Exports Have Increased Under Reciprocity Agreement With Cuba.

COMPARATIVE FIGURES GIVEN

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 15.

Statistics compiled by the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics, and covering the months of January, February and March, 1904, compared with figures of previous periods, show the results of Cuban reciprocity thus far.

In three months our exports to Cuba have increased from $5,211,063—the figures of a year ago—to $6,495,149, or nearly 25 per cent; our imports from Cuba have increased from $11,948,597 to $23,217,180, or 95 per cent, and our total trade with Cuba has increased from $17,159,660 to $29,712,329, or more than 70 per cent.

The imports from Cuba for the nine months ended March, 1903, amounted to $39,892,712, while for the nine months ended March, 1904, they amounted to $45,446,786, an increase of about 14 per cent. The increase of the imports from Cuba for the three months ended March, 1904 (the reciprocity period), as compared with the three months ended March, 1903, was nearly 100 per cent. The increase of the exports to Cuba during the nine months' period ended March, 1904, as compared with the same period of the previous year, was about 18 per cent, but in the last three months' period it was nearly 25 per cent, while the increase of the total trade between the two countries was about 15 per cent in the nine months' period, and more than 70 per cent in the three months' period.

Taking up the details of the imports and exports, it is found that the bulk of the recent increase in the imports of the United States from Cuba is made up of sugar. The imports of sugar during the nine months ended March, 1904, amounted to $32,925,873 in value, as against $25,707,231 during the nine months ended March, 1903. In terms of quantity, these two sums represent 1,720,899,070 pounds in 1904 and 1,491,440,208 pounds in 1903, respectively. The figures show that about 70 per cent of this increase was secured during the three months of January, February and March, 1904—the period of reciprocity. Thus the imports of sugar from Cuba in January, 1904, were $4,781,951; in February, 1904, $6,273,978, and in March, 1904, $8,259,356, making a total for the three months of $19,315,285, or about 70 per cent of the total for the whole nine months ended March, 1904—$32,925,872. This large recent addition to the importation of cane sugar by the United States has not been followed by any material variation in the price of sugar in this country.

The increases in the values of articles exported from the United States to Cuba are much more diversified than in the case of the imports. Especially important increases have been registered in the exports to Cuba of flour, cotton cloth, sewing machines, locomotives, leather, lumber and furniture.

RESIDENTS OF SEWICKLEY GIVE TOWN A BAD NAME

Sewickley was given a bad reputation by three of its residents arrested in Pittsburgh. When Edward Banks, Ellis Smith and William Rowe were called up in Central station yesterday morning, charged with carrying revolvers and fined $50 and costs each, they pleaded that they lived in a lawless town, where there is but one policeman and where every man has to protect himself. The fines were remitted, but the revolvers were confiscated.

INSTRUCT VOTERS FOR THE STATE

Rhode Island Governor Will Hold "First Voters' Rally" at Public Expense.

THINKS SCHEME LEGITIMATE

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 15.—A "first voters' rally," to be conducted by the state of Rhode Island and paid for out of the civil fund allowed the governor for extraordinary expenses, has just been announced, to be held in Infantry hall, this city, next Thursday evening. The speakers are President Faunce of Brown university, Bishop McVickar, the Hon. Rathbone Gardner, Lieut.-Gov. Utter and John F. Beagan, all prominent men and in close touch with Rhode Island affairs.

The purpose of the rally, according to Gov. Garvin, is "to consider the duties of citizenship." Discussing his purpose in issuing the call, Gov. Garvin says: "It is my idea to have this rally patriotic, not partisan. I shall pay for it out of the appropriation of $3,000 voted me by the general assembly, because I regard it as a perfectly legitimate use of the money and more wisely and more profitably expended than it would be in entertaining visitors to the state, as has been done by some of my predecessors. I think that something ought to be done to arouse the voters to a sense of their duty in the coming campaign. That is practically my sole purpose in getting up the meeting."

Asked if his action in holding such a rally under the auspices of the state with himself as the chief executive presiding was not in a sense socialistic, Gov. Garvin said: "Not at all. My action may be an innovation and unparalleled in the sense that there has been no such rally ever held under state auspices, but state money has often been used for less worthy purposes than the education of its citizens, and to instruct the voters at the public expense is no more socialistic than to instruct the children in the public schools, to which the state is committed."

SANTOS-DUMONT AIRSHIP READY FOR FAIR TRIAL

PARIS, May 15.—(Special Cable, Herald Copyright.)—M. Santos-Dumont's airship No. 9 was taken out of the shed this afternoon for the first time. No. 7 is the airship to be sent to the St. Louis exposition. Everything went well. After being out half an hour at an elevation of 50 yards, the airship was taken in. There is a big difference between this machine and No. 9, seen last year.

MORMONS HAVE LUST FOR POWER

FOLLOWERS MAY BE SINCERE

The Rev. Charles F. Wishart of the Eleventh United Presbyterian church, Allegheny, preached yesterday on "The Mormon Menace." He said in part:

"These words will express, I think, the animus of the Mormon leaders. The first is greed; the second is "sensuality," and the third is "power." The rank and file are without a doubt more honest than their leaders. It is not the first time that a false religion has boasted many worshipers who were better than their leaders. Behind the public men are the wires and move the pawns have the keenest of financial optics. The tithing system, the co-operative stores, the bathing pavilions, the dancing platforms, the refreshment stands and the theaters are all factors by which the human piles up its wealth. That is to say, the church piles up the wealth which goes largely to the benefit of the man who run the church, along with greed these men have the lowest and most sensual moral standards.

"These debasing conceptions which have their fruit in the horrible revelations recently made by President Smith are no mere incident to the Mormon system. They are deeply ingrained in Mormon theology, and are an essential part of the low and material idea which Mormon teaching has of God, of man and of the relation of the soul to the body. But perhaps the most serious part of the Mormon menace is the fact that these leaders have the lust for power. Says the frank Bishop Lunt: 'We expect to control the continent.' And already they have taken steps toward making good the boast by securing the balance of power in many western states. And it is no idle boast, when we recall that the head of the Mormon church is the greatest banker in Americ. He could can vote his members in a solid block as he pleases. No man dares dispute the authority of the priesthood. And it has been abundantly shown that no man has the ghost of a chance politically who does not win the favor of the Mormon hierarchy.

"Such conditions confront us not only with a government within a government," but with an inner power so absolute and so dangerous, so demoralized and so unscrupulous that no thoughtful man can shut his eyes to its terrible possibilities. It is un-American and unchristian to trifle with the unholy thing. Smoot stands before the American people, not as the representative of a citizen alone. He stands as the representative of a system which has been a stench in the nostrils of the nation for the last half century. Smoot stands for a system which foster law-breakers while it could not be a lawmaker. Moreover, he represents that system in defion and avowed revolt against law, and the solemn covenant by which Utah obtained statehood. His own personal record is not the point at issue. For the time being he is the Mormon system in terms of political life.

"The Christian manhood of this country must meet this issue in earnest. The hour presses fairly and squarely. Shall we turn or set back the clock of civilization. This horrible travesty on religion can only be destroyed as we bring to bear the unsullied work and word of the white Christ. He who loves the pure and holy Jesus cannot but hate a system whose components are greed, sensuality and the lust for power. Let us apply the gospel to the poor deluded followers, and a good smart touch of the law to the unscrupulous leaders, and in one year and work for less time than this twin relic of barbarism shall take its place with its twin sister slavery in the limbo of dead and forgotten delusions which men have cast off forever in the onward march toward light.

WORLD IS BEING TAUGHT A LESSON THAT SORROW FROM SIN MUST COME

Pastor Russell Spoke Twice to Large Audiences at Portland, Oregon.

RETURNS HOME ON SUNDAY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—Pastor Russell of Allegheny, Pa., spoke twice here today to large and attentive audiences. The afternoon topic was "The Oath-Bound Covenant," from Hebrews vi:17-19. The evening text and discourse follow. Pastor Russell is routed via St. Paul, Minn., where he is expected to speak twice on Thursday next. Friday he goes to Los Angeles, Cal.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 15.—Pastor Russell is to speak at Milwaukee, Wis., and on next Sunday he expects to be with the home church at Bible House chapel, Allegheny, Pa. Pastor Russell said:

"Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning"—Psa. xxx:5.

The night of weeping mentioned in our text began with the disobedience of our first parents in Eden when they brought upon themselves—and in a general way upon all of their posterity then in Adam's loins—the death sentence because of sin. The dying process which began there and which increasingly persist in our race as the fruit of the original sin, augmented by individual transgressions against the divine standard of righteousness. The result is woe, woe, woe—mental weakness, difficulties, troubles, moral defections, bringing pain and sorrow to the individual as well as to his friends and neighbors, and physical weakness, disabilities, diseases—all culminating in the pronounced sentence, "The wages of sin is death."—Rom. vi:23.

Some one may perhaps say, all do not weep; some are very joyous, very hilarious, go to the theaters, go to the ball rooms, to various public entertainments. See what joy and happiness there is in America! Would see how some know nothing about the weeping in the present time. Not so, we answer. God is teaching the world a great lesson respecting the "exceeding sinfulness of sin," and while all may not intelligently who does not win the favor of the Mormon hierarchy.

Such conditions confront us not only with a government within a government," but with an inner power so absolute and so dangerous, so demoralized and so unscrupulous that no thoughtful man can shut his eyes to its terrible possibilities. It is un-American and unchristian to trifle with the unholy thing. Smoot stands before the American people, not as the representative of a citizen alone. He stands as the representative of a system which has been a stench in the nostrils of the nation for the last half century. Smoot stands for a system which foster law-breakers while it could not be a lawmaker. Moreover, he represents that system in defion and avowed revolt against law, and the solemn covenant by which Utah obtained statehood. His own personal record is not the point at issue. For the time being he is the Mormon system in terms of political life.

The Christian manhood of this country must meet this issue in earnest. The hour presses fairly and squarely. Shall we turn or set back the clock of civilization. This horrible travesty on religion can only be destroyed as we bring to bear the unsullied work and word of the white Christ. He who loves the pure and holy Jesus cannot but hate a system whose components are greed, sensuality and the lust for power. Let us apply the gospel to the poor deluded followers, and a good smart touch of the law to the unscrupulous leaders, and in one year and work for less time than this twin relic of barbarism shall take its place with its twin sister slavery in the limbo of dead and forgotten delusions which men have cast off forever in the onward march toward light.

TOO MUCH MONEY SPENT NOW IN VAIN DISPLAY

The Rev. S. E. Young Believes Much Good Would Come From Retrenchment.

The Rev. S. Edward Young of the Second Presbyterian church spoke last night on "Why Is the Cost of Living So High?" His text was I. Timothy vi:6-8. "Godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us be therewith content." He said in part:

Here we are enjoying larger incomes, most of us, than in those depressed years 1896 and 1897, yet few of us feeling much more easy financially than we did then. Is it that we give to charity or religion seem so difficult to spare? Notwithstanding your increase of money to hand, do you pay your bills each month and find a nicety balances? Is it not a fact that the 1897 nearly everybody has become more extravagant? Breadstuffs that cost $5 58 now cost $11 47. The meats you bought then for $7 72 you must pay tomorrow $9 26 to get. Dairy and garden products that your purchasable with $8 11 will not be obtained tomorrow for less than $13 08, and the clothing you wore then at an expense of $13 90 you can not wear without spending $17 10.

If the average cost of living in our country seven years ago was $72 45 per year, the very same necessaries and comforts would today demand the outlay of about $100. Producer, conveyor, middleman—everybody wants a raise for his work and nearly everyone has gotten it. Do we not love gold so dearly that as between getting it 500 a month with necessity of paying out $400 and $100 a month with necessity of paying out $99 we would select the former?

The contentment of the text refers to moral sufficiency. As used it by Paul. Is our cost of living due so much to what we need for food and clothes and comfort as to the lust for display, the fascination money has, the ambition to best our self, outshine our neighbors or at least not fall behind them? Let another 10,000 people in the Greater Pittsburgh region who live just now clear on to or a little beyond their means all suddenly retrench until each can meet expenses, and everybody will be happier.

Bible Classes to Hold Picnic.

The Hebrew Bible classes of the Beth Hamedrash Hagodol of Pittsburgh will close their sessions on Sunday, May 29, with an excursion and picnic in Moss Side park. The party will leave Market street wharf in the morning at 9:30 o'clock on the Francis J. Torrance. The proceeds are to be applied to the Bible classes of Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky.

Scarcity of New Territory Is Hindering the Oil Operators

There is a painful sameness in the developments in the lower southwest fields. The weather has improved and the condition of the roads is so much better than there is little left to cause a further delay in development work. Scarcity of new territory is the greatest hinderance at this time, but operators show a disposition to make renewed efforts to find new pools and extensions to the old. For several weeks the old fields, or those that have been under development for some months, have been furnishing nothing better than average producers, with an increasing number of dry holes. This is particularly true of the deep-sand territory in Harrison and Wetzel counties. There has been a marked falling off in the productiveness of the new wells, and the once large producers are declining at a rate that will soon pass them in the ordinary class of producers. All of the deep-sand developments combined have not at this time a half dozen wells with an individual production of 100 or more barrels a day. With the old wells declining and the new coming in small it can readily be understood that the territory that for more than two years has been furnishing the greatest amount of new production is waning, and in the lower southwest region there is nothing in sight to take the place.

In the Berea grit pool, in Calhoun county, operators are meeting with good success, and there is an inducing activity in that district. The extension to the northeast of the old development has not been defined, and it is thought that its producing limits can be advanced. Several new producers and dry holes were completed during the week. The best well was the South Penn Oil Company's No. 2 on the Camden-Summers farm. The failure is positive on the Alpha part of the older part of the field, and will have no bearing on the active development work in the extension.

Wildcatting in Calhoun county will be something of a feature during the summer months. Operators are of the opinion that they can locate some undiscovered pools in other localities than along Yellow creek, the scene of the present activity. Taken as a whole, operators are having better success in the shallow-sand districts than in the deep-sand territory.

In the Wick district, Tyler county, the Carter Oil Company, controlled another good producer on the J. W. Ashrom farm. The old wells in this district are holding up very creditably, and it has been the most profitable of any of the shallow-sand pools discovered within the county. Nothing has been done to work under way than any other of the shallow-sand counties. South of Harrisville some new wells are coming in, but they are nearly all small, and the effort to extend the producing limits of the pool have not been satisfactory. In the Hughes river district there is considerable activity, but the wells are unusually light in point of production. In the Burnt Cabin district, Pleasants county, the salt sand producer drilled by Brooks, Campbell & Co. on the Sherman farm is holding up at 75 barrels a day and has stimulated operations in that locality.

In the Salem district, in Harrison county, a half dozen wells were completed during the week. All were small, the best not having an initial production of more than 20 barrels a day. In point of experimental work this is the most active of all of the deep-sand districts. In the vicinity of Weston, Lewis county, the gas companies are beginning an active campaign. While all are anxious to increase their supply of the vaporous fluid, there is the possibility of discovering new oil producing territory. In some of the wells completed quite recently oil has been found in small quantities, and Lewis is the only county that is now claiming the attention of the gas companies. Marshall, Wetzel, Harrison, Marion, Doddridge and Monongahela are being tested.

Nothing new was discovered in the development near Milton, in Cabell county, during the week. The failure to extend the producing limits of the pool has caused operators to lose interest. It is now the general opinion that it is nothing more that a congested pool and the chances for increasing the production not at all promising. The Big Lime formation has not at any time been conspicuous for its regularity.

Operators on the Ohio side had but one discovery to attract attention during the week, and it has aroused some speculation as to what will be the outcome. In the opinion of some it presages the introduction of a new Keener pool. It is purely a wildcat, located two miles east of the Graysville pool and two miles south of the old Jackson Ridge field, on the Nelson Hogue farm. It was drilled by Post & Co., and has been drilled into the Keener sand and is showing for a 25-barrel producer. The location of the well are such as to make the outlook promising, for it is far enough removed from any previous production to make it possible to develop a considerable pool if it should prove to be located in producing territory of any dimensions. New pools on the Ohio side have not of late been very satisfactory. What looked like good discoveries have proven failures when more fully tested.

In the Rays Run district, in Washington county, there is a large amount of new work starting. This district promises to be the most active of any on the Ohio side for the next few months. Nothing new has been developed in the vicinity of the Stringer farm producer, near Dillonvale, in Jefferson county. There has been some new work under way for some time and is now nearing the sand.

Southwest of Burgettstown, in Washington county, several small wells were completed. Neither the also of the wells nor their location make them of any particular importance. Above Georgetown, in Beaver county, the test drilled in on the Calhoun farm and looked like a producer was tested, and, notwithstanding it produced 50 barrels the first 24 hours after it was shot to pumping, proved a failure and is now going deeper in search of another sand.

voted to these and opposed to everything that is unrighteous, impure and sinful. We see in fact all about us that the candle lights and lamp lights which the saints are holding up in the world are powerless to overcome the great mass and density of darkness and of sin which oppose purity and absolute righteousness on every hand. The experiences of the past and of the present leave no room to hope that the Lord's people ever could completely dispel the darkness of sin, ignorance, prejudice, superstition, selfishness, etc., from the world. They could never bring about that glorious condition of things which the Lord taught us to hope for, namely, that God's will should be done on earth as it is done in heaven. This same thought is presented in all the pen pictures of the scriptures portraying this subject; the density of the darkness is portrayed, the feebleness of our light is shown in the illustration and the hope held out is that God in His due time will dispel the darkness of the night by causing the "sun of righteousness to arise with healing in its beams."

Sunlight of Happy Day.

Who is this sun of righteousness whose arising will scatter and dispel all the powers of darkness and vanquish them forever? What power is this that is likened to the sunlight in comparison to the light of an imperfect tallow candle's feeble flicker? It is the Lord—the Messiah—the great King so long promised—the King of glory.

But can we expect so much from the second coming of "the man Christ Jesus who gave Himself fa ransom for all"? No! The man Christ Jesus gave Himself; His sacrifice was complete and forever! He is the man Jesus no longer. He is now the Lord of glory, not only far above man's plane and condition, but, as the scriptures declare, "far above angels, principalities and powers and every name that is named." As the man He suffered for our sins—"for the sins of the whole world." He was made flesh, as the scriptures tell us, for this purpose—"for the suffering of death—that He by the grace of God should taste death for every man."—Heb. ii:9.

Having taken the human nature merely for that purpose, and having accomplished that purpose in His death on Calvary—having given Himself as the "man Christ Jesus," a ransom for our sins, as New Creature, raised to this newness of life by the divine power in His resurrection. He is now the Lord of glory, "now the Lord is that spirit." He, whose coming as Messiah the world awaits, is like one, those glories as pictured by John the Revelator as shining like the noonday sun. He is the same one who revealed Himself but a moment to Saul of Tarsus, who was blinded by the sight, which he describes as "above the brightness of the sun at noonday. These are pictures of the Lord's present glory which the natural eye cannot see without a miracle such as was wrought for St. Paul.

We do not wish to intimate that the Lord himself will shine out to the whole world with a literal brightness such as Saul of Tarsus beheld. No. That is described as being a miracle. St. Paul says of it: "Last of all He was seen of me also as of one born before the time." He was seen of the apostle as the church, born in resurrection power, will ultimately see Him, as the apostle John explains—"We shall see Him as He is," as Saul of Tarsus when he saw the Lord before the time. In such a manner the world will never see the Lord—never see Him as He is. The promise so to see Him is only for the church. To the world it is said: "Yet a little while and the world seeth Me no more."—(John xiii:19.) Neither would it be to the advantage of the world to thus see the Lord, and to have their physical eyes injured, as were the eyes of Saul of Tarsus.

As in the scriptures referred to, that which constitutes the present time a night time is moral darkness, a darkness of ignorance, prejudice, sin and selfishness, so likewise corresponding to the night of the new dispensation does not mean a physical light, but a moral, intellectual, enlightening influence which will pervade the whole world and bring the light of knowledge and of conditions, none too great to give them the needed lesson—that sin bears an evil fruitage and must ultimately be destroyed in peace and joy and righteousness and divine favor and eternal life are to be properly granted to mankind.

A Symbol of Ignorance.

Bible students will recognize the figure of night as one common to the scriptures when describing the interregnum of the present time with "this present evil world" in which sin abounds, in which the "curse" or death-sentence rests upon humanity, in which the "prince of darkness" is the "god of this world."—(John xiv:30.) All are familiar with the statement of the prophet that "darkness covers the earth and gross darkness the people"—(Isa. lx:2), which is tantamount to our Lord's expression that "the whole world lieth in the wicked one."—(I. John v:19). Not only is this figure of darkness and night, trouble and weeping prescribed to our attention as the present lot of humanity in general, but the Lord's people, the consecrated, the saintly, are referred to as sharing with the world many of the experiences of this night time, yet as possessing something which in its measure, offsets the darkness and gives them a measure of light—the divine favor and the divine revelation of the good purposes of God yet to be accomplished for the world of mankind. Thus the apostle, after speaking of the whole creation groaning and travailing in pain, mentions the church also, saying, "We ourselves also groan within ourselves—waiting," but not for the same things for which the world in general waits.—Rom. viii:23.

The prophet gives a pictorial suggestion of what it is that differentiates the condition of the church so largely from that of the world, saying, as of the representative of the church prophetically, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, a lantern to my footsteps."—(Psa. cxix:105.) The apostle Peter corroborates the prophet David, saying of the church, "We have a more sure word of prophecy to which we do well that we take heed, as unto light which shineth in a dark place until the day dawn."—(II. Pet. i:19.) Our Lord corroborates the same thought, saying of Himself of His own ministry, "The light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not." (John i:5.) Again He spoke in reference to His faithful followers of this gospel age, the royal priesthood, saying, "No man should light a candle and put it under a bushel, but rather on a candlestick, that it may give light unto all those in the house." Again, "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven." Here we have the same thought of the prevailing darkness—the darkness which hateth the light, which is in opposition to the divine will and arrangement—the darkness of sin and selfishness and meanness of the fallen human nature.

How true are these scriptural declarations, these scriptural pictures, to the facts as we see them all around us today! How few in the highest, fullest, truest sense of the word are "children of the light," lovers of truth and righteousness and purity and goodness—devoted to these and opposed to everything that is unrighteous, impure and sinful. We see in fact all about us that the candle lights and lamp lights which the saints are holding up in the world are powerless to overcome the great mass and density of darkness and of sin which oppose purity and absolute righteousness on every hand. The experiences of the past and of the present leave no room to hope that the Lord's people ever could completely dispel the darkness of sin, ignorance, prejudice, superstition, selfishness, etc., from the world. ### Shine Forth as the Sun."

We have spoken of the Lord and His kingdom and the reign of righteousness which it will inaugurate as being the great sun, the new dispensation, but blessed thought! Glorious anticipation! The Lord's faithful ones from Pentecost to the end of the age—the royal priesthood, the "bride" class, the "body" class, the "little flock," for the glorious temple—are to be "joint heirs" with the Lord of glory in this kingdom, and therefore to be parts of this "sun of righteousness" which is to bring enlightenment and blessing to mankind in general. No wonder the apostle speaks in ecstasies of such a hope as the "high calling," the "heavenly calling!" No wonder he exhorts us to "lay aside every weight and every besetting sin and to run with patience the race set before us," that we might attain unto such a glorious inheritance, "incorruptible, undefiled, and that fadeth not away."—(I Pet. i:4.) No wonder that he counted all earthly things but loss and dross that he might win Christ (win a place in the anointed, a membership in His body, in His bride, the glorified church), that he might be found in Him, that he might have a share in His resurrection to glory, honor, immortality, the divine nature. No wonder he rejoiced to count all other things unworthy of comparison, and was glad to suffer with Christ that he might also reign with Him. The same prospect, the same inducements, the same hopes, the same reasons for fidelity, belong to the elect even yet, and will be ours until the election is complete, the sufferings of Christ ended and the glories of the kingdom begun.

The privilege of participation as integral members of the sun of righteousness that is to arise upon the world with healing in its beams is granted to those who in this gospel age have been justified by faith and obedience and sanctified through the Spirit and tested and found faithful in letting their lights so shine before men as to glorify our Father in heaven. Our Lord was the first of these. His indeed was a great light in the darkness. The apostles were brilliant lamps, burning brightly and showing forth the praises of Him who hath called us from darkness into the marvelous light. The faithful all the way down have been light-bearers before the world, and it is in keeping with the divine character as well as the divine word that these should be honored in the future with the privilege of showing forth the divine glories in divine power and majesty when the due time shall come. The matter is so stated by our Lord in the parable of the wheat and tares. He pictures the wheat as the children of the kingdom and shows how the adversary sowed tares so as to almost swamp the wheat; how both were to grow together until the harvest time; how the harvest, in which we are now living, would be the time of separation, and how the wheat would all be gathered into the garner—into the heavenly state or condition. Then follows the forceful picture to which we refer—"Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father; he that hath an ear let him hear."

The apostle presents the same thought under another figure to which we have already referred. After telling that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain during this night time, he intimates that they are waiting for something—they know not what. We know, because we have the lamp, God's Word; they are waiting for the kingdom, for the manifestation of the sons of God" in kingdom, power and glory. We, the church, on the contrary are waiting for adoption, for transference from present conditions, none too great to give them the needed lesson—that sin bears an evil fruitage and must ultimately be destroyed in peace and joy and righteousness and divine favor and eternal life are to be properly granted to mankind.

Stocks Languish, While Bonds Improve—Business Depression, Crop Uncertainties and Coming of Election Period Have Bad Influence.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 15.—Developments of the last week in Wall street were, upon the surface at least, highly contradictory. The two divisions of the market drew away from one another. Bonds improved, while stocks languished. The enormous gold exportation and the tendency for firmer money, which afforded to the casual observer a sufficient explanation for stock declines, did not in the slightest deter bankers and corporation managers from determining upon and announcing schemes to obtain additional capital; and, moreover, stock declines, gold exports and the tendency for firmer money did not prevent speculative investors and true investors from oversubscribing for new issues or from a slow absorption of bonds and investment issues of a high character.

Probably a closer scrutiny and more careful analysis of the market movements would develop features showing that the seeming contradictions were more apparent than real, or, rather, that the divergence between bonds and stocks owes its origin to a common influence. Doubt and uncertainty is surely a controlling factor in the stock market, checking operations and influencing declines in price. "When in doubt play for safety," is practically axiomatic in the stock market as in any other game of chance or hazard. So it is by no means impossible that uncertainty or fear rather than complete confidence has been the market motif, influencing the slow sale and errosive declines in stocks and the strength and improvement in bonds, marking the abandonment by some individuals of a possibly weak position for one of greater security.

The natural productive wealth drawn from the farms, the forests, the mines and the fisheries will slowly but surely furnish the means for the absorption of the huge capital creations which Wall street and financial interests everywhere in their recent get-rich-quick frenzy piled mountain high. The net productive wealth of the country from natural resources has been estimated anywhere from $1,000,000 a day to $500,000,000 a year, and the larger amount is not regarded as excessive. This is a huge sum and furnishes the basis for a continuance of development and for an extensive absorption. The only difficulty, or, at least, the chief difficulty, appears to have been the failure of bankers and promoters to realize that there is a limitation even to the productive wealth of this wonderful country. When they created $6,000,000,000 worth or thereabout of new securities in four years, which were listed upon the stock exchange alone, and created corporations with capitals of $1,500,000,000 and $400,000,000, and tried to delude others and to deceive themselves that the capitalization represented present value, they created in excess both of natural productive wealth and of the country's absorbing power.

But now some of the water—not all, by any manner of means—has been eliminated from the more notorious experiments in industrial finance, and the community is watching with calmness and a fair degree of patience the working out of other problems dealing more particularly with the industrial and commercial end of the proposition. The financial end was tried in the balance and found wanting.

Dullness and heaviness in the stock market appears to be entirely normal at the present time, in view of the business depression and the crop uncertainties and the coming of the dull election period. The first two are matters the outcome of which cannot be determined in advance, and they are likely to control the situation for some time to come. While the reaction has not been felt everywhere, or with equal force, the "do nothing" disposition appears to be general, and it will prevail until the leaders can see the future sufficiently clear to take some initiative. The uncertainties of the situation are as clearly defined in general trade and industry, with few exceptions, as in the stock market. The fact the stock market is but the reflection of the situation elsewhere. It will feel the improvement first, when it comes, but the chances of a rising stock market this summer are very slim indeed. An oversold short interest might again afford the basis for recovery, but it could not sustain a bull market.

REVIEW OF THE WEEK IN LOCAL MARKETS

New Cherries Are Here—Fruits and Produce Boom—Hay a Feature.

The first cherries of the season arrived here Saturday afternoon. They were shipped from Vacaville, Cal., and sold at $2.25 per 10-pound boxes. The past week was excellent for the tropical fruit business; oranges and bananas were in extraordinary demand and prices on both have been advanced. There was a general upward tendency in produce, owing to local scarcity. There was plenty of stock rolling, but it is not always to be had just when wanted at this season of the year. Strawberries had the call, and the market was steady on the whole. Demand increased toward the close of the week. The biggest arrivals were on Saturday, when 17 cars came in. However, the market was cleaned up before 9 o'clock a. m. A car of Tennessee strawberries was offered in the local market yesterday. The Maryland crop is reported fined and will soon replace Carolinas. Potatoes stiffened up during the past week; the feeling was much firmer on both old and new on Friday and Saturday, and prices were raised accordingly. Tomatoes showed much firmer; so did cabbages. Beets, beans, lettuce and other articles in this line. Florida tomatoes will soon be exhausted and another crop will replace them. Bermuda potatoes are said to have few cars compared with Floridas and other stock. Onions were about steady all week. No change in sweet potatoes.

Poultry picked up considerably near the close of the week; chickens were in much better demand. Butter was pretty weak near the close, but early in the week some dealers had difficulty getting enough stock to fill orders. The reduction of last Monday stimulated demand considerably. Warm weather curtailed demand for eggs a great deal; however, the select stock sold as high as 18 cents all week. There was a large supply of new provisions near the end of the week, but hard was not in so good demand. Cheap cooking butter cut down this demand perceptibly. There was little or no change in the flour line; cereals seemed to move better and flour was firm. An advance by millers was not followed, but higher prices on flour may come this week. Sugars were firm at the same prices. Raisins were reduced.

Timothy hay attracted no small amount of attention during all last week. Prices went up rapidly and the top prices for the present crop were reached. There was a sale of $17.50 for No. 1 on the local exchange Saturday, but none was offering. A sale of No. 1 timothy was reported at $16.50 late Saturday. No. 1 clover and No. 1 mixed hay is weak, pasturage being very good. Receipts of hay here were very weak. Middlings and bran are not in big supply, but the demand is not very heavy. Prices on both were reduced Saturday. Oats showed firm and prices went up to 46 cents for No. 2 white. Corn was about steady, not a great deal offering. Straw was in very limited supply and prices were moved up accordingly.

DECREASE IN SUPPLIES STRENGTHENS CEREALS

Wheat Stands Firm, With Same Close as Friday—Provisions Unchanged.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 14.—An estimated heavy decrease in available stocks imparted firmness to wheat today. Final quotations were practically identical with yesterday's close. Corn is down ¼@⅝c. Oats are off ⅛c. Provisions show almost no change.

A firm tone was maintained in wheat at the opening, fostered by reports from Australia, and reports of drought in the Bannubian territory being largely responsible for the improved sentiment. Initial sales on July were ⅛c lower to ¼c higher, at 83¼@84c. Shorts were fairly active bidders at the start, but offerings were rather limited, and on that account a moderate advance in prices were made, July selling up to 84¼c. The weather was cool in the west, with light frosts at many points, and this had considerable to do with the early firmness.

A number of bearish reports were received from the southwest later in the day causing quite general selling, under the influence of which July declined to 83¼@83¾c. A rally followed on covering by shorts, who were somewhat disturbed over predictions of a liberal increase in the visible supply. The market closed with an inclination to firmness, final quotations on July being at 83¾@83¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 48,300 bushels. Primary receipts were 153,200 bushels, compared with 215,700 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 91 cars, against 125 cars last week and 157 cars a year ago.

The early corn market was strong on an active commission house demand, the large cash business of yesterday, together with small local receipts, being the chief incentives to buying. Later in the session favorable weather and predictions of increased acreage caused considerable selling, which resulted in a decline. The market closed weak and near the low point. July opened unchanged to ⅛c higher at 45¼c, sold between 47¼@48¼c, and closed at 47¼@47⅜c. Local receipts were 49 cars, with four of contract grade.

A easier feeling in oats late in the session was due almost entirely to weakness in corn. Until the break in corn occurred there was some good local buying in evidence, which was brought out by small receipts and a fair demand. Prices held firm until the last hour, when moderate liquidation caused some recessions. After opening a shade higher at 38⅛c, July ranged between 38¼@38⅜c and closed a shade at 38¼@38⅜c. Local receipts were 82 cars.

Provisions were steady notwithstanding the easier tone of grains. About the only feature of trading was sales of pork and purchases of packers and outsiders. The market received the benefit of firm prices for hogs. July pork closed a shade higher at $11 17½ and lard 5c at $6 42½. Ribs were up 2½c at $6 37½@6 40.

More Rain is Needed.

Although there was a light rainfall throughout the Allegheny and Monongahela valleys yesterday, rivermen do not look for more than a foot rise this morning and the coal, which has been accumulating along the wharfs, will probably not move out for several days. Capt. Ed Roberts and Mariner were still stalled in Sawickley yesterday, but are expected to be able to get out this morning. The Charley Brown was towed in yesterday morning. She was also the Lorena, which met with an accident Friday. She has been pumped out and tied up at the Morgantown wharf. The Keystone State will arrive from Cincinnati this morning and return tonight. The Kanawha is also expected from Parkersburg today.

The Three Rivers

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, O., May 15.—(Special.)—The stage of the river at 6 o'clock this evening marked 12.3 feet and falling, making a fall of seven-tenths of a foot during the last 24 hours. Weather clear and cool. Packets in and out on time. All of them did a big passenger business. The Relief arrived from Louisville with a tow of empties. The Coal City passed up with empties from New Orleans for Pittsburgh.

LOUISVILLE—River falling; in canal, 6.2 feet; on falls, 4 feet; below locks, 12.6 feet; clear and cool.

PARKERSBURG—River 7 feet and falling; clear and cool; the Valley Belle left at noon for Middleport, the Ben Hur for Cincinnati, the Kanawha and Keystone State for Pittsburgh, and the Bessie Smith for Wheeling.

GALLIPOLIS—River 8 feet 3 inches and falling; cloudy and cool.

POINT PLEASANT—River 6 feet and falling; cloudy and cool; no boats.

WHEELING—River 5 feet 8 inches and falling; cloudy and cool; up, Avalon, Kanawha and Keystone State, Pittsburgh; down, Virginia, Cincinnati.

STEUBENVILLE—River 5 feet 1 inch and rising; raining and cold; up, J. C. Risher, Avalon, Kanawha, Keystone State; down, Virginia.

OIL CITY—River 2 feet and rising; cloudy and cool.

WARREN—River 1 foot 5 inches; rain and cool.

GREENSBORO—River 7 feet 3 inches and stationary; showers and cooler.

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 5.1 feet and the river was falling.

EVENTS FAVORABLE.

Three Factors Beneficial to the London Market—Prices of Americans Lower.

LONDON, May 15.—(Copyright Cable.)—Events continue to be favorable to the markets. First there is the issue of the new Japanese loan, the English share of which is understood to be over-subscribed for more than 20 times, some say nearly 30 times.

The second event of importance favorable to the markets has been the signature of an agreement with China for securing Chinese labor for the Rand. The importation of Chinese labor will naturally mean a further market expansion in the output of gold.

The third factor is the large shipments of gold from the United States to Paris, which is expected to bring great ease to the Paris market and cause a demand for gold in London on the French account to cease as soon as the French demand for gold is satisfied.

The American market is rapidly becoming hopeless and the indifferent crop reports issued by the United States government, together with the poor trade outlook generally, have combined to force prices still lower than those of last week.

Costs Money to Carry a Gun.

Joseph Morningchalk of Banksville paid $50 and costs yesterday morning. He was shooting in Second avenue, near the South Tenth street bridge. Henry Hunter of Canonsburg was arrested for drunkenness, but as a revolver was found in his pocket he was required to pay $25 and costs.

HENRY PHIPPS MAY GIVE MORE

SOD FOR DOWNTOWN PARK

Whether Henry Phipps intends to make additions to his gifts to the people is not known, but from a remark he let fall while visiting the conservatory in Schenley park last Tuesday, it is inferred that if he learns the needs of the conservatory he will supply them.

Mr. Phipps and his wife arrived in Pittsburgh last week and went to the conservatory. He expressed regret that he had not been able to be there while the Easter flower show was in full bloom, but he was pleased with the condition of the greenhouses and the fine array of domestic and exotic plants there. Mr. Phipps said he was going to the St. Louis exposition and that he would be back in two weeks. He would make it a point to see Director Bigelow on his return.

Usually when Mr. Phipps sees Director Bigelow the meeting is followed by the announcement of a new addition to the conservatory. Thus, the project to have an economic house followed such a conference and another meeting was succeeded by the announcement that an addition for a botanical school would be built. The conservatory ought to have a house for orchids, and, as there is plenty of available space to the east of the conservatory for an orchid addition and other accessories, it is hoped that Mr. Phipps will decide to build them.

A force of men will be put to work at the Second avenue park, repairing and painting fences, digging up the ground and planting grass sod. Supt. George W. Burke is satisfied that the grass will do so well that it can be mowed four weeks from now. Engineer Will begin this week the work of laying off the cinder paths, the baseball and football grounds in Washington park, the site of the old basin just above the Union station. This will be a playground for the children of that district.

William Bartell, a dealer in animals in New York, has acquired four young lions from the Highland park zoological garden, sons and daughters of Martha Washington and Sadu. In return for them he will send a zebu cow, an Indian antelope, two Ceylon monkeys and two Indian ocelots, members of the cat family. The animals will arrive on Wednesday.

Trainer Ernest Tretow is very much worried about the zebu cow, the horned horse, the antelopes and the ostriches, which were moved to their summer quarters last week. The cold weather may be too hard on these animals, and it is impossible to return them to their winter quarters.

The cold and threatening weather kept people away from the parks yesterday, as it was nearly 6 o'clock before the sun came out. The traction company had put on many extra cars, expecting a rush to the parks, but before 2 o'clock scores of cars were run back into the barns.

TRACTION OFFICIALS HAVE BEEN PROMOTED

Several Alterations Made in the Car Routes to Insure Better Service.

In the barns of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, yesterday, notices were posted announcing changes among officials of the transportation department. By order of General Superintendent John Murphy and approved by President James D. Callery, the following changes take effect today:

J. S. Shedd, who was assistant superintendent of transportation, is made superintendent of the Birmingham division, including the Carson street, Hilltop and Suburban lines. Charles E. Long, superintendent of overhead lines, becomes superintendent of the Second avenue division. John B. Loftus, chief dispatcher of the Monongahela division, is made assistant superintendent of Second avenue. He will have charge of the McKeesport sub-division. J. M. Loftis, superintendent of the Butler street division, is transferred to the Homewood division, of which he will be superintendent. C. J. King, chief dispatcher in East Liberty, is made superintendent of the Highland park division. W. J. Fleming, dispatcher of the Butler street division, is made superintendent. The division superintendents who have been displaced have been offered other positions.

Several improvements in the routing of cars are put into effect today. The Verona cars, which have been running through to the city, will have their terminus at Wilkinsburg junction, where city-bound passengers will be transferred to the Swissvale and Rankin and East Pittsburg and Wilkinsburg cars. The Lincoln and Ellsworth route has been discontinued and a new route, known as Lincoln and Liberty, substituted. Instead of coming to town via Ellsworth and Forbes avenues, the Lincoln avenue cars will come in by Liberty avenue to Wood, to Water, to the Baltimore & Ohio station and return east by the same route. Changing these two routes will help the congestion of cars in Sixth avenue and Wood street and at the same time benefit Wilkinsburg people. They will now have a cross-town through service which they never had before for 5 cents.

The transfer car between Crafton junction and Thornburg, on the West End division has been abolished and every other car on the Crafton and Ingram route will run through to Thornburg. This will give Thornburg people a 10-minute service from Pittsburgh. The work of putting down the new tracks in front of the Lake Erie station on the South Side will be completed Thursday. This will allow use of the two tracks on the west part of Smithfield street bridge, on which summer cars will be running by next Sunday.

Gusky Orphanage Election.

The annual meeting of the Gusky Orphanage home was held yesterday morning in the vestry of the Eighth street chapel. The election of officers was: Excuse Josiah Cohen, president; Charles Smith, Jr., vice president; I. E. Isaacs, secretary, and A. M. Hast, secretary. The institution has an endowed fund of $60,000 but $10,000 is required to maintain it each year. Sixty children are being cared for.

Pittsburghers in English Capital.

LONDON, May 15.—(Special Cable.)—Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Rafferty, with Miss Helen Rafferty and Mrs. T. J. Connelly of Pittsburgh, have arrived in London and are stopping at the Carlton hotel. The visitors have been in Paris for some little time and expect to spend two or three weeks in London before returning home. S. M. McAuliffe of Pittsburgh is at the Hotel Cecil.

The Delineator for June.

Among the fiction in the Delineator for June are two college tales, "Bailey's Sister," a love story from the school boy's point of view, and "At the Window of Paradise," a heart episode of a Harvard class day; these stories are illustrated by C. W. Ashley and Charlotte Weber. There is a charming Japanese tale, "The River of Honour," written by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, a sister of Marion Crawford, and the drawings are by C. D. Weldon. "The Evolution of a Club Woman," which draws to a close this month, satisfactorily to both husband and wives, is a foil to its companion piece to the romantic history of Rebecca Boone, the second in the "Great Women of Pioneer Times" series. The relation between mothers and daughters, the making of gardens and of window boxes, the care of the neck and arms, the arrangements for weddings, the product of the kitchen and supplying of the table for flowery, salady, ice-creamy June—all these topics are touched upon helpfully in the June Delineator. Besides this, the little ones may further follow the fortunes of their lively friend, Tommy Postoffice, and learn to make for themselves a real Japanese paper house.

MAN SWAM OHIO RIVER TO ESCAPE DETECTIVES

Allegheny Police Stand on Shantyboat and Watch Two Men in Skiff Row to Other Side. Speakeasies Raided.

Diving headlong from a shanty boat into the cold waters of the Ohio river yesterday afternoon, a well-dressed man swam out into the stream and escaped from a squad of front-office men who were raiding an alleged speakeasy. The man was taken aboard a skiff in which Cyrus Coulter, said to be the proprietor of the resort, eluded the officers. The two landed at the foot of Main street, in the West End.

Director Scandrett's order that all speakeasies in Allegheny be closed and their owners prosecuted is being enforced rigidly. Detectives Speer and Johnson and Special Officers Lee and Ehrhardt were detailed to raid the boat owned by Coulter at the foot of Greenwood street. Several attempts have been made to enter the place, but the police have been forestalled by "lookouts," who gave warning. The doors of the boat were barred yesterday afternoon when the police arrived and Coulter went through a window and into a skiff. Just as the police broke down the door the second man jumped through the window into the river and swam to the skiff. Eleven visitors were arrested and taken to No. 3 patrol station. Four barrels of beer were found.

An alleged speakeasy, of which Martin Oliver is said to be the owner, was raided in Rebecca street, near Ridge avenue, by the same officers. Oliver and 14 visitors were taken to Central police station.

During the day the police broke up several crap games. The gamesters in most cases were boys, four of them being arrested. Director Scandrett declared yesterday that he was going to have no favorites in his crusade against the purveyors of liquor who sell illegally. Some influences have been exerted in behalf of several owners of large resorts, but to all those who go to the front for favors of this character Scandrett asserts that the places will be closed at once or their owners prosecuted. This order has caused a bigger stir than any that has been issued since Director Scandrett was appointed.

On the complaint of J. J. Watkins, who said he lost $80 in the house, 528 Kilbuck street was raided early yesterday morning. Sadie Powell and Gertrude Walker, ingresses, and two white men were arrested. The women were sent to the workhouse for 60 days in default of fines of $25 each, and the men were fined $5 apiece.

In Pittsburgh Kate Irwin of 3 Clay alley and Mary Sullivan of 549 Sixth avenue were arrested at noon yesterday on charges of keeping disorderly houses. Seven men were in Mrs. Irwin's house and 11 in Mrs. Sullivan's. Earlier in the day 3534 Butler street was raided and the proprietor, Charles Jackson, and nine visitors arrested. Mrs. Catherine Boyle was arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house in Jones alley and Mrs. Maggie Slavin was arrested as a visitor.

DEDICATORY SERVICES OF SEWICKLEY Y. M. C. A.

The seating capacity of the Methodist Episcopal church in Broad street, Sewickley, was taxed yesterday afternoon when exercises dedicating the new Young Men's Christian association building were held. The Rev. William C. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church, spoke on "The Evangelistic Test." The Rev. William Milligan, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, told "How the Pastor Can Help the Association." "The Association, an Opportunity to Get," was the subject of an interesting address by T. H. B. McKnight, treasurer of the Pennsylvania lines west. In response, Clarence Finke spoke on "The Association, an Opportunity to Give." A history of the Young Men's Christian association building, from the inception of the idea to the completion of the handsome $85,000 structure at Blackburn avenue and Division street, was given by Robert Wardrop, president of the Peoples National bank, Pittsburgh, and chairman of the building committee. The dedicatory prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. A. G. Wallace of the Freedmans board of the United Presbyterian church. The music was by the Sewickley Valley Male chorus, including 50 voices, under the direction of R. A. Shaw.

At 7:30 this evening the flag-raising in front of the new building will be conducted by Battery B of Sewickley. Following this ceremony the doors of the building will be thrown open and a public reception will be held. Another reception will be held tomorrow evening. The interior of the building will be decorated with potted plants and flowers and there will be music both evenings by the High School orchestra of Sewickley. Wednesday morning the rooms will be open for the use of members.

Six acres of ground, including an athletic field, surround the building. Herbert C. Bartholomew is secretary of the Sewickley Young Men's Christian association and W. W. Brundage is physical director.

EXPLOSION BURNS WIFE AND WRECKS A HOUSE

Illuminating Gas Had Been Leaking and Finally Set Fire to Home.

By an explosion of gas in the dining room of the residence of Andrew Sharp, at 5144 Blair street, at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, his wife was severely burned and the house damaged to the extent of $1,200. Sharp was blown into the kitchen but was uninjured.

The gas from a chandelier had evidently been leaking for some hours. Mrs. Sharp went to light one of the gas jets and was caught in the flames and burned about the face and body. The partition between the dining room and kitchen was blown out, and one side of the kitchen. Dr. C. L. Curl of Hazelwood avenue was called and after Mrs. Sharp's injuries were dressed, she was sent to Mercy hospital. An alarm was sent in and the flames subdued.

POLICE ARE NOW HUNTING FOR MAN MAKING CHARGE

James Callahan of Negley avenue, who was arrested on Saturday night on complaint of C. F. Hughlett of 816 George street, was held over at Central station yesterday morning for a hearing today. Hughlett said Callahan stole $15 from him at a smoker of the veteran corps of the Eighteenth regiment in a hall in Sixth avenue, where both were guests. Hughlett failed to appear and detectives are looking for him to arrest him. Callahan says Hughlett made a mistake.

TROUBLE IN MUNNS COURT.

Two Houses Raided and a Number of Fines Imposed.

Cora Johnson, on a charge of keeping a disorderly house in Munns court, was fined $50 and costs yesterday morning, but later the whole fine was returned to her. Five visitors were fined $10 and costs each, but two of them were also given back their money.

Cora Jones, who lives in the same court, was fined $10 and costs; another woman, Irene Chapman, an inmate there, $10 and costs on a charge of robbing a man in the place, and the victim and another male visitor were fined the same amount.

Brass and Iron Beds

There are many artistic novelties in brass and iron bed construction. The latitude for designing is much wider than that allowed by wood materials. In this stock there is a variety of brass and iron beds that is most inviting to the eye.

Particular people are discarding their old-style beds of wood, and adopting the brass and iron beds in their place. This is largely by reason of the sanitary advantages of brass and iron over wood for bed construction.

And, although the reputation of this house for handling only high-grade furniture of every description is well established, it is likewise well known that prices are invariably moderate.
